INTERESTING STUDY OF FALL

This exclusive photo of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, was taken as he awaited the result of his trial for conspiracy in the Teapot Dome oil leases. Concerning the trial he remarked, "A man who has a clear conscience is not afraid of the outcome of a trial."

Stage and Literary Offers Pour in On Managers of Ruth Elder's Daring Trip

Vaudeville Chains Ready to Give Girl Flier Contracts; Lopez Offers $10,000 Weekly for Appearance at His Night Club; Film Concerns Busy

New York, Oct. 14.—With her sudden and dramatic leap into fame, contract negotiations of all sorts, from publishing concerns, theatrical agents and night clubs, poured in today upon the pretty girl flier's managers. The offers ranged from $10,000 a week to $100,000 for a single contract. Various vaudeville chains admitted today that they were prepared to offer Miss Elder contracts for appearances after her return to the United States. Vincent Lopez said that he had cabled the aviator an offer of $10,000 a week to appear in his new night club, Casa Lopez.

INSURGENTS GIVEN IMPORTANT POSTS

C. O. P. Assigns Chairmanships as Means to Promote Peace in Party

Washington, Oct. 14.—Assured of their ability to organize the senate in the seventieth congress, Republican leaders today took steps to insure complete recognition of the insurgent bloc in the assignment of new committees to chairmanships as a further means of promoting peace in the party. The insurgents and independents will be given major committee chairmanships with a lavishness that would have amazed the 1924 presidential campaign. It was in the fall of 1925 that four insurgents were expelled from the Republican party in the senate but since those days a great change has come over the Republican leadership.

The new regard for insurgents can best be illustrated by the fact that one of the expelled senators—Lynn J. Frazier, Republican of North Dakota—will be given the important chairmanship of the Indian affairs committee, while two more independents will be promoted to chairmanships and four more retained in their present posts as heads of other large committees. The promotions will go to Senator Robert H. Howell, Republican of Nebraska, who will become chairman of the public lands committee, which a few years ago unearthed the Teapot Dome oil scandal.

The insurgents and independents retained in high posts will be Senators George W. Norris, Nebraska, as chairman of judiciary; William E. Borah, Idaho, as chairman of foreign relations; Hiram W. Johnson, California, as chairman of immigration, and James Couzens, Michigan, as chairman of education and labor.

DENY PURCHASE
New York, Oct. 14.—Brooklyn baseball headquarters today denied purchasing Dave Bancroft, Boston club pilot. No negotiations looking toward such a transaction have been made, it was said.

STAR'S ADS BRING QUICK RESULTS

Mrs. B. W. Van Meter, R. F. D. No. 2, Morral, had some chickens and grapes to sell. A friend suggested a classified ad in The Star. She ran this one day. "Barred Rock" chickens, also some ripe grapes. Phone 15471. Twenty-five persons responded to the ad that night and the following morning. Within a few hours Mrs. Van Meter had sold all her chickens and grapes. "This is but one of many instances in which The Star's classified ads have brought about quick results. Just try it for yourself."

FORMER TREASURER AT SIDNEY HELD

Beery Arrested on Indictments Charging Embezzlement of Funds

Sidney, Oct. 14.—Alphonso Beery, former treasurer of Shelby County, was arrested at his home here at 2 a. m., after three indictments charging the embezzlement of county funds were returned late Wednesday by the Shelby County Grand Jury. He is being held at the county jail without bond until a preliminary hearing can be arranged, probably Saturday.

A shortage of $19,000 in Beery's accounts was reported two weeks ago by state examiners, following an examination of Beery's records. A shortage of $19,000 in Beery's accounts became evident July 20, when Beery reported he had been robbed of $37,000 in county funds. Beery said he had been forced into an automobile at the courthouse entrance, bound and gagged, and taken to a lonely rural spot where he was thrown from the auto. Beery's second term in office expired soon after the reported robbery. He had served two terms.

State examiners pointed out that records in Beery's office showed there had been no sums so large as the reported loss. In the treasurer's office in 1926 or 1927.

OFF FOR NATAL

Second Leg of French Pilots' Flight Extends to Rio De Janeiro

Paris, Oct. 14.—A message received today at Le Bourget from St. Louis, Senegal, stated that Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Le Brix had left for Natal, Brazil, at 8:23 a. m.

This is the second leg of the French pilots' flight from Paris to Buenos Aires, Argentina. From Natal they expect to fly to Rio de Janeiro and from there to Buenos Aires.

Rescue of Ruth Elder and Haldeman Comes After Pair Had Battled Storm for Hours; Escape from Death is Revealed as Amazing

H. A. STEVENS IS FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLING

Jury Deliberates One Hour Before Returning Verdict Against Attorney

THREE DAYS TO APPEAL

Former City Clerk Charged with Taking Funds of Ritter Estate

Howard A. Stevens was found guilty of embezzlement in a verdict returned by a jury in the court of common pleas last night following a trial which lasted through all of yesterday's court session. The verdict was: "Guilty as charged in the indictment." In the indictment, Stevens was accused of having embezzled $9,204.73 from the estate of Charles F. Ritter, a former resident of Marion, while serving as executor, Stevens was dismissed as executor shortly before his arrest in April of this year and G. Farr Lurie appointed as his successor.

The case went to the jury at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the verdict was returned at 6:30 o'clock. The jury recessed for supper, so that about an hour was spent in actual deliberations before returning the verdict.

Three Days To File
Sentence will not be passed until the three-day period allowed by law for filing motion for a new trial has elapsed.

The state concluded introduction of its evidence shortly after noon and the defense was allowed to close its case. The defense was in charge of George D. Ryan, a Cleveland lawyer. In proceedings in connection with the Ritter estate made it impossible to establish absolute proof of the embezzlement charge.

The shortage of $9,204.73 listed in the indictment is the amount of money which Stevens claimed to have on hand when he filed an accounting in probate court. When ordered to appear and show what had been done with the money he failed to respond and his removal as executor followed, testimony showed. G. Farr Lurie, the new executor, testified that he had never received any funds from Stevens.

Stevens is 37 years of age, and practiced law here for about 12 years. He also served as city clerk for two years.

In yesterday's trial the state was represented by Prosecuting Attorney Frank Wiedemann and John H. Clark, who appeared as attorney for the Ritter heirs. The defense was in charge of George D. Ryan, a Cleveland lawyer.

Members of the jury were: Mrs. Bertha A. Brobeck, 687 Sugar-st.; Carl Bryant, 410 David-st.; William Somers, 1410 Marion, R. F. D.; Stewart G. Glaser, 139 Homer-st.; Paul Lawrence, Marion, R. F. D.; Mildred Brandt, 296 Bellefontaine-av.; Mrs. Eldora E. Morgan, 618 Girard-av.; John Gompf, Waldo; Mrs. Gertrude Pastors, 157 Superior-st.; E. D. Dunn, 337 Olney-av. and G. W. Hinman, 214 E. Church-st.

Returned to Jail
Stevens was returned to the county jail to await sentence. He has been held at the jail since his indictment in the May term of court.

The next case scheduled for trial is that of A. W. Tibbals, former local dealer in electrical supplies, who is held in the county jail on an indictment charging him with forgery. This trial, which will wind up the schedule of criminal cases for this term of court, is set for Tuesday, Oct. 18.

FORMER PROSECUTOR IS STATE'S COUNSEL

Chester A. Meek To Assist in Trial of Wilbur Hand

Toledo, Oct. 14.—Chester A. Meek, Toledo, former prosecuting attorney of Crawford County, will act as special prosecutor, Oct. 19, for the trial of Wilbur Hand. Hand is charged with the robbery of the Commercial Savings Bank of Galion, of $115,000 in cash and bonds, early in July. The two men charged with the robbery, The plan is Harry Zillich, Toledo. Both are held at the county jail at Bucyrus. Both men declare they have been framed by a Toledo detective.

LOVE REIGNS!
PRINCESS ILEANA
ILEANA ELOPES
WITH OFFICER

Roumanian Princess Mars Plans of Ambitious Queen Marie

Vienna, Oct. 11.—Another romantic love match involving a commoner with a member of the Roumanian royal family, the present one marrying Queen Marie's plans to establish a matrimonial alliance with the Bulgarian royal family, was reported from Bucharest today.

Princess Ileana, aged 18, and the only unmarried daughter of Queen Marie and the late King Ferdinand, is said to have fallen in love with a young army officer, and advances from Bucharest said they had eloped.

Color was given to the report by news from Bucharest that the government has forbidden the Roumanian press to make any mention of the alleged whereabouts of any member of the royal family.

According to the dispatch, the young princess, who accompanied her mother to the United States last year, had been secretly in love with a young aide-de-camp of the late King Ferdinand for some time and had secretly slipped away with him to a Black Sea port.

Ileana is a sister of Carol, former crown prince of Roumania, who deserted his wife and relinquished his right of succession for a titian-haired but plebeian beauty named Angela Lupescu.

AGAIN PUTS BACK PROPOSED FLIGHT

Must Wait for Weatherman To Smile, Says Mrs. Crayson

Old Orchard Beach, Maine, Oct. 14.—We have got to wait until the weather man says the sea is safe for us," said Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson today, denying that possibly her flight to Copenhagen, Denmark, might have to be postponed again late today, as it was this morning.

"For banks show off Halifax and a storm is raging at sea," she continued. "A storm makes for rough water, and if we were forced to land our 'Dawn' would not fare well. Also I see terribly seasick traveling on the water."

"Our plans are all mapped out, and we simply cannot be hurried. We are going to be successful. I am determined to be the first American woman to span the Atlantic by air."

COPENHAGEN READY TO RECEIVE FLYERS
Copenhagen, Oct. 14.—Detailed arrangements were under way here today to receive the Blüthner plane "The Dawn," which is scheduled to stop off at Old Orchard, Me., tonight, carrying Mrs. Frances Grayson of New York and two men pilots.

The marine airplane at Kastrop will be illuminated with red lights and powerful searchlights and all necessary landing gear will be in readiness. The "Dawn" will be met by a high powered searchlight which will show their way toward their target.

Police precautions will be taken to protect the American fliers from enthusiastic crowds if they are successful in making the flight. They will be formally welcomed by the mayor and other municipal authorities.

EXERT UTMOST ENERGIES TO KEEP PLANE UP

Girl, Man Realized Ship Could Not Remain Aloft with Engine Trouble

EXCELLENT LANDING

Craft Explodes, However, When Attempt Is Made To Salvage It

(Copyright, 1927, by I. N. S.)
About 8:30, Barendrecht, bound for Azores, Oct. 14.—The rescue of Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman was effected after those two daring fliers had battled for hours against the terrific storm in the skies.

The "American Girl" had excellent flying during Tuesday night and Wednesday, but on Wednesday night it hit a storm area which caused both pilots to exert their utmost energies to keep the ship aloft.

Miss Elder states very frankly that both were worried for fear they would not be able to bring their plane through the storm.

On Line Falls
Yesterday morning the two fliers, seeking to get out of the storm area, veered southward and were headed toward the coast of Spain when their oil line failed.

With their gauges showing a failure in oil supply and their engine heating rapidly, Miss Elder and Haldeman knew they could not keep the ship in the air long and as soon as they sighted the Barendrecht they came down.

Land Safely
The landing of the airplane upon the sea by the two fliers was executed safely and was a fine bit of aerial maneuvering, but when attempts were made to salvage the airplane, it exploded and burned up. It is believed that the overheated engine caused the explosion.

Miss Elder and Haldeman came down after they had been in the air for 35 hours and had flown nearly 5,000 miles, according to the best estimates they are able to make.

LOCAL CONGREGATION HIRES NEW PASTOR

Rev. John A. Carriker, Weirton, W. Va., Accepts Forest Lawn Charge

Rev. John A. Carriker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Weirton, W. Va., has accepted a call to the pastorate of Forest Lawn Presbyterian Church, according to word received by church officials last night. The new pastor, who expects to preach here Sunday, will officially assume his new duties later in the month when he has concluded his services in Weirton. His plans will be made Sunday when the new pastor calls the local church.

Reverend Carriker was extended the call following a meeting of the congregation of the church Wednesday night. The church has been without a pastor since Rev. Alfred W. Swan left June 15 to take up his duties as pastor of Park Congregational Church in Greeley, Colo.

CIVIL ENGINEERS TO VISIT CITY ON TOUR

Delegation Scheduled To Arrive in Marion at 4:30 O'Clock This Afternoon

A delegation of representatives of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which is holding its annual fall meeting this week in Columbus, is scheduled to arrive in Marion about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon on a motor tour of high ways in this section of the state.

According to the plan now in effect, the delegation will arrive in Marion at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and will remain here until 10 o'clock, when they will leave for Columbus.

RUTH BREAKS TWO MARKS IN FLIGHT

New York, Oct. 11.—Although failing in its ultimate goal, Ruth Elder's dramatic bid to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic succeeded in smashing two records, one of which is shared by her pilot-navigator, George Haldeman.

The fliers took their plane, American Girl, over a 2,574-mile transatlantic course, exceeding by 151 miles the previous record for flight over water established by Lieutenants Hegenberger and Mastland in their flight from San Francisco to Hawaii.

To Miss Elder, also goes the record of the longest flight ever made by a woman.

FLIERS DUE TO DOCK AT AZORES ON SATURDAY

Barendrecht Will Put into Port at Hour; Reception Is Planned

MORE DETAILS SOUGHT

Dutch Steamer Carries Only Small Wireless, Hence Few Messages

Horta, The Azores, Oct. 14.—The S. S. Barendrecht, carrying Ruth Elder and Capt. George Haldeman, will arrive here tomorrow, according to advices received today.

Officials are making preparations to afford the fliers a reception and give them every comfort they may need.

New York, Oct. 14.—The attentions of two continents today were centered upon a little tank steamer which was ploughing through the troughs of the Atlantic Ocean toward the Azores.

On the steamer were Miss Ruth Elder, daring aviator, and her companion, Capt. George Haldeman, who had been saved from death in the ocean waters when their plane, American Girl, was forced down in a flight that was to have terminated at Paris.

The steamer, the Barendrecht, was expected to reach the Azores tomorrow morning. Meanwhile today, efforts were being made to get in touch with the small Dutch oil tanker by wireless and vessel were rushing out to meet her in order to supplement that meager amount of supplies yesterday that the fliers had been rescued and the plane burned.

Carries Small Wireless
The Barendrecht carries only a small wireless and was unable to get in touch with shore stations; the new had to be relayed by other vessels. The Barendrecht was setting a course to Horta, Azores, but after picking up Miss Elder and Haldeman changed her course toward the Azores.

When it left the American Girl was about 350 miles northwest of the Azores. A broken oil line forced it down when it had flown approximately 2,000 miles across the Atlantic.

Groves waiting at Le Bourget field to greet the winsome aviator, who was going to show Paris what the American girl was, had about given up hope for the plane.

A message signed by Miss Elder, stating "Both Haldeman and I okay," was supplemented by a radio from the ship's master, as follows:

Swallowed in Oblivion
"Haldeman and I were saved, flying eagle, XX1381, from New York to Paris. Both well. Engine destroyed by fire while sailing. Trying to land both at Azores. Position 43.31 north, 21.40 west."

This was the first word from the fliers after a torriding silence of 38 hours.

A delayed radio from the steamer American Bunker had given the world news of the American Girl five hours after the take-off, when passengers of the ship alighted, the plane approximately 450 miles out to sea.

Although 25 other liners and 75 lesser vessels dotted the ship lanes over which Haldeman had plotted his course, and passengers and crew kept an alert watch for the American Girl, the plane was not sighted until it was within 100 miles of the Azores.

When the fliers were sighted, the ship's master ordered the Barendrecht to turn back toward the Azores.

LOCAL WOMAN VICE PRESIDENT

Mrs. Matthew D. Porter Honored at Annual Convention in Columbus

Mrs. Ina Porter, wife of Matthew D. Porter, superintendent of the Marion County Home, was elected second vice president of the Ohio Welfare Conference at the annual convention of that body being held in Columbus, according to word received here this afternoon.

Judge Harry Gram, Springfield, was elected president; James Davis, Toledo, first vice president; H. H. Shiver, Columbus, secretary and treasurer.

Columbus was named as the convention city for next year, but the date for the 1928 meeting was not set.

Probation Meeting
The Ohio Probation Association, meeting in connection with the welfare conference, closed the following officers: Henry J. Robinson, Havana, president; Jay L. Duke, M. Vernon, vice president; and Owen C. Archer, Cincinnati, secretary and treasurer.

Today's session closes the four-day meet, which was attended by 770 delegates from all parts of the state. The conference went on record as opposing the referendum law which would permit abortions after completing 18 months training, to practice on an equal footing with physicians who have received four years medical training.

A discussion of adult dependents, delinquents, community organization, children and the family featured today's session. Miss Dorothy Coo, of New York City, institution secretary, and Rev. Percy G. Kinsinger, of Pittsburgh, addressed the conference yesterday.

CANTO CONCERT DRAWS CROWD

Prominent Instrumentalists
Guests of Local Club in Initial Program

With a combination instrumental and vocal program, featuring three prominent instrumentalists and a vocal quartet, the Canto Club opened their season's program before an unusually large and appreciative audience last night at the Canto Club.

The instrumentalists, Isador Berger, pianist, Bruno Steinmetz, violinist, and Joseph Berger, violoncellist, presented a program of such skill and beauty as has but seldom been heard here. Two groups of vocalists, played by the trio in ensembles, were most enthusiastically received.

Club Well Received

The vocal selections offered by the club, under the direction of Ernst C. Berger, proved even more delightful than in former years. The club, organized as a male choir, is composed of some 30 voices, representing the best male vocal talent in the city. Last night's concert was their eleventh presentation here in five seasons, not including the numerous occasions when they have entertained music lovers in surrounding cities.

A trio in A minor, Elegie, Theme Varié and Finale, Tchaikovsky, served to open the program presented by the visiting artists. The group, presented by the trio, showed to advantage the remarkable musical abilities of the three out-of-town musicians, and was received with a most unusual display of enthusiasm.

Berger in Solos

Mr. Berger, the violinist, next played Hungarian Fantasia No. 2, Haydn and responded to an encore with "The Dream Song" from "Naughty Marietta," Victor Herbert.

Three beautiful solo numbers were played by Mr. Berger, who is head of the piano department of the Chicago Music College. His selections were "Etude in E major, Chopin," "Staccato Etude," Rubinstein, perhaps the most beautifully presented of the three, and an encore number, "Turkish March," Mozart.

"St. Cecilia," Gounod, and "Rondeau," Roccino, were the numbers played by Mr. Steinmetz, who responded to an encore with "Tannhauser," Schumann, one of the most heartily received numbers of the program.

In closing a trio in D minor, Allegro, Andante, Scherzo, Mendelssohn, were played by the trio in ensemble.

One of the most charming numbers of the Canto Club concert was an arrangement by Mr. Carl, "Songs My Mother Taught Me," Anton Dvorak and another, with solo part by John F. Lacey, tenor, "The Rosary," Nevin, the latter exceptionally well-received. The "Pilgrim Chorus" from the opera, "Tannhauser," Richard Wagner, proved well the club's talent.

Other Numbers

Other numbers of the concert program, equally beautiful, were "Salutation," Samuel Richards Gaines, with which the concert opened, "A Vagabond Song," Frances McGinnis with words by Bliss German, "Our Good Cause," Haykey B. Gaul, with words from Shakespeare, "Take Those Little Ways," Augustus Barrett, with words from Shakespeare, and "My Rose of Yesterday," Marie Rich, an arrangement by S. H. Giehn.

Piano accompanists were Mrs. Helen Zuck and Miss Mabel Balduf.

Several other musical programs will be presented by the club throughout the year, arrangements having been already made for appearances here in connection with the club concert March 4, of Robin Pease, eminent baritone, and for a "gala concert," May 7, when the club will celebrate the fifth anniversary of their organization with a varied choral program.

AUTO MECHANIC SHOOTS WIFE, THEN KILLS SELF

Cleveland, Oct. 14—John Urige, 32, automobile mechanic, is dead here today, after shooting himself and seriously wounding his wife at the latter's home last night.

Urige and his wife, Mrs. Mary Urige, had been separated and he had gone to her home in an attempt to effect a reconciliation. They argued and Urige began shooting. He called for their three children and is believed to have intended shooting them, but when they failed to answer, he turned the gun on himself, dying instantly.

DIES FROM BURNS

Tiffin, Oct. 14—Mrs. Avery C. Smith, 50, is dead at her home today at Green Springs, near here, of burns she sustained in her kitchen last Thursday. It is believed Mrs. Smith's clothing ignited from a wood fire in the room. Her charred body was found by her son on his return from work.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT RUTH ELDER

mitted to travel on an American warship.

Assurance that the Barendrecht, originally bound for Baytown, Texas, has altered her course to land the rescuee made public today by the steamer's agents in Rotterdam. It said:

"We are due at the Azores Saturday morning, when we will land the rescued aviators."

The Barendrecht, a small 2,000-ton craft, radio equipment of which is apparently only of comparatively short range, sent out a message of the rescuee to be relayed by vessels with more powerful sending equipment, at 8:00 yesterday morning. Time required in transmission, however, delayed delivery in Paris until 5:35 p. m. or 12:35 p. m., New York time.

HUSBAND HAPPY GIRL FLIER SAFE

Balboa, Canal Zone, Oct. 14—Lyle Womack, husband of Ruth Elder, the daring transatlantic aviator who was rescued at sea yesterday after her plane had been forced down in the ocean, today was awaiting further word from his wife before deciding whether to sail to the United States to meet her or await her arrival here.

Womack was here visiting his parents. He received a message from his wife after a sleepless night and day of haunting the cable office for news of her.

"I've been through 17 hells," he said, "but now I am the happiest man in the world."

"I have cabled my love to the bravest girl in the world."

"We expect to live in the canal zone when Ruth gets back but I will probably go to New York to meet her and accompany her here."

"I am sorry she did not make Paris. I was behind her attempt a thousand per cent."

Womack said he was acquainted with Captain Haldeman, Miss Elder's copilot, and knew him to be a fine man.

BOTH PRAISE, CRITICISM SHOWED ON FLIER

New York, Oct. 14—Praise and criticism were expressed today in the wake of the dramatic flight of Miss Ruth Elder and her pilot, George Haldeman. Whereas leaders in aviation were lauding the pretty girl's courage, some members of her own sex characterized her undertaking as "foolhardy" and "unnecessary."

"It was a remarkable flight at a time of the year when the Atlantic abounds with storms," said Clarence Chamberlin, who flew to Germany with Charles A. Levine. "Miss Elder has real nerve and Haldeman is a fine pilot."

Dr. Katherine B. Davis, a leader in the field of sociology, termed the flight a mistake. "There is no woman alive today that I know of who is equipped for such a flight," she said. "I cannot see where she accomplished anything new."

Says Typist Better

"A good typist is of much more service to humanity," said Winifred Seville Stoner, founder of the league for fostering genius. "She showed courage but what good did she do? Her only object was to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, not to accomplish something for science."

Guiseppi M. Bellanca, noted airplane designer, said Miss Elder's flight was more important than those that followed the first transatlantic flight, because it was over a course new to air pilots.

"It may turn out that it will provide important knowledge regarding flying conditions over the southern route," he said.

Fraulin Thea Rasche, the German aviator, thought the flight was "splendid," but Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was quoted as saying that it was "very foolish" for Miss Elder to risk her life the way she did, although there was no questioning her bravery.

WILL ORDER SHIP TO GO AFTER RUTH

New York, Oct. 14—The Cosulich Line steamer, President Wilson, now in the Mediterranean, will be ordered off its chartered course and put into the Azores Islands for the express purpose of receiving Ruth Elder, at a special guest, if the girl flier approves of the plan. It was announced today at the company's headquarters.

We will send her on to Paris or return her to New York, whichever she desires," Guiseppi Cosulich, president of the company, said. "We are extremely interested in aviation, having an aerial line of our own abroad. We recently planned a transatlantic flight but called it off in view of the many disasters."

"We are anxiously awaiting word from Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman as to whether they care to accept our offer. We can arrange to have the President Wilson at the Azores by next Tuesday, the 18th," he said.

For a marriage to be valid in Maryland there must be some religious ceremony.

DENIES REPORTS

Sumner Not Called in About Housing Conditions, Says White House

Washington, Oct. 14—Maj. Gen. Charles P. Sumner, chief of staff, was called to Washington from a speaking trip in the west in order to discuss budget matters with President Coolidge, it was reiterated at the White House today.

White House attaches denied reports that the president took summary action after Sumner had severely criticized the army housing conditions. He had blamed the Coolidge administration.

It was pointed out that other officials have been just as outspoken and frank in their denunciation of the military housing conditions. Secretary of War Weeks began the drive more than five years ago when he termed the wartime conditions still in use "fire traps."

HALTS PLANS

Element of Mystery Injected in Death of Woman

Los Angeles, Oct. 14—Injecting an element of mystery into the death of Mrs. Marion Hallenbeck, wealthy member of an old New Jersey family, Coroner Frank A. Nance stopped plans for cremation of the body here after and ordered a chemical analysis of vital organs.

Mrs. Hallenbeck had been married three times, and left an estate valued at more than $500,000. Her last husband, to whom she was married a year ago in Santa Barbara, is said to have been several years her junior.

RULING ON INSOLVENT DEBTOR LAW QUESTIONED

Canton, Oct. 14—A suit to test a ruling laid down by Judge A. W. Agler invalidating a provision of the state's old insolvent debtor law, as applied to workhouse prisoners, has been filed in the court of appeals here. The case is scheduled for hearing today.

The law has been cited by various attorneys to effect release of liquor law violators after they had served 60 days in jail. Judge Agler stopped the practice here by holding that the law did not apply to workhouse prisoners.

SCHOOL BANK DEPOSITS NOW TOTAL $3,649.19

With this week's deposit of $806.42, a slight increase over that of the week before, school bank savings for the year totaled $3,649.19. Of this week's amount, $751.02 was the savings of the grade schools and $142.40 that of Harding High School. An increase over their savings for the week before was shown in both deposits, the total increase over last week being $10.10.

NAVY CONTINUES SEARCH FOR TWO MISSING FLIERS

Washington, Oct. 14—The navy department was continuing its efforts today to locate Lieut. Earl A. Thomas of Richmond, Ind., and Sgt. Frank E. Dowdell of Carbondale, Ill., who are missing in Nicaragua. Both are marine corps fliers.

Admiral Thomas and Dowdell may have been killed or are held by bandits. Admiral Sellers, commander of American occupational forces, has dispatched a marine column to search for them.

FIRE SWEEPS BUSINESS SECTION AT WINSTON-SALEM

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 14—Fire of undetermined origin early today damaged five stories in the heart of the Winston-Salem business district, causing damage estimated at $500,000.

Gilmers, Inc., a chain department store, opening on these streets here, was completely gutted by the flames. Three other stores were partly destroyed. The fire broke out in Gilmers.

Columbus, Oct. 14—Margaret Audrey McQuaid, 14, of Haydensville, is dead today from tetanus, contracted when she stepped on a rusty nail at her home two weeks ago. She died Thursday night in Mercy Hospital here.

$20,000 HOME DESTROYED

Columbus, Oct. 14—Fire and police officials are making efforts here today to learn the origin of a blaze which last night destroyed the home of M. J. Hammond. Loss is estimated at $20,000.

MARION MEN GO TO COLUMBUS MEETING

Fred B. Scherff and Charles B. King To Attend Manufacturers' Session

Fred B. Scherff, secretary of the Employers' Association, and C. B. King, general manager of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., left for Columbus late this afternoon where tonight they will attend a meeting of the Ohio Industrial Council, to be held at the Athletic Club in that city.

The meeting will be open, with a dinner at 6 o'clock at which members of the Ohio Industrial Council will be guests. The industrial council is composed of representatives of employers' associations throughout the state and the meeting is for the purpose of discussing activities for the year. It is expected talks will be made by members of the Industrial Commission.

WOMAN HURT WHEN MACHINE HITS CAR

Failure of Brakes Blamed for Collision at Intersection

A Ford touring car was badly damaged and its driver, Mrs. Robert George, Fulton, slightly injured, when the machine crashed into the rear end of a city street car at the intersection of Main and Church sts., about 11 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. George's only injury was a cut on her right leg.

Failure of the brakes on her Ford machine, a 1923 model, to work properly, caused the collision, Mrs. George stated. While driving west on Church st. she saw the stop light flash in the traffic signal but was unable to stop her car.

The left front tire of the Ford was cut in two, the left fender and radiator bent, and the radiator and both headlights damaged.

The street car, going south, was in charge of Motorman J. L. Welch.

RAIL POLICE RAID CAMP FIRE PARTIES

Eleven Men Taken into Custody in Local Yards During Night

Hocking Valley and Erie railroad detectives broke up camp fire parties in their respective yards and scattered the crowd at police headquarters by 11 o'clock last night. Included in the group picked up in the Hocking Valley yards was one colored man, who gave his name as Herbert Wickert, 42, of St. Louis. He was searched by the police at headquarters, who discovered a pin chain such as might be used in forcing open a window, also a long screw driver and a pair of pliers. Wickert is being held at police headquarters pending further investigation.

The remaining members of the Hocking Valley gang as well as those picked up by the Erie police were charged with loitering and with stealing coal.

PARENTS REPORT YOUTH MISSING SINCE THURSDAY

The parents of William Jones, 17, a student at the Central Junior High School, reported to the police at 11 o'clock last night that their son had left for school in the morning and had not returned at that time. They knew of no reason why he should leave home, the parents said.

GETZINGER SURRENDERS, RELEASED ON BOND

Toledo, Oct. 14—After being sentenced for driving the past three months, accused of conspiring to violate the federal prohibition act, Earl Getzinger, Kenton, entered the federal building here today and surrendered. He was released by U. S. Commissioner Fred Gaines on $2,000 bond. Getzinger was accompanied by an attorney and two bondsmen. He had been sought since the raiding of a roadhouse last May.

CHRISTIE SERVICES ARE HELD AT EL RENO, OKLA.

Funeral services for J. A. Christie, brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Merchant, E. Center st., who died Monday night at his home, El Reno, Okla., were held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at that city. Interment was made in the cemetery at Girard, Kan. Mrs. Christie was formerly Miss Mayne Taylor, this city.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ralph Wood was removed from her home, 417 Park st., to City Hospital this afternoon in the C. E. Curtis & Co. invalid car.

NO CHANGE REPORTED IN VETERAN'S CONDITION

No change is reported in the condition of W. W. Coff, Broadway, father of Mrs. Lydia Coff, Latoncrest, who sustained serious injuries when he was hit by an automobile at Broadway Saturday. He suffered a broken right leg, cuts on his left hip and about his head. He was removed immediately to White Cross Hospital, Columbus. Mr. Coff is past 50 years of age and is a Civil War veteran.

STATE COMMISSION HAS KENTON BRIEF

City Contends That Wholesale Gas Prices Have Been Misrepresented

Columbus, Oct. 14—The state utilities commission today had under consideration a brief, filed by counsel for the city of Kenton, dealing with the evidence submitted in the hearing held by the commission relative to protests against the proposal of the West Ohio Gas Co. to increase natural gas rates at Kenton.

Claim was registered in the brief that the company had not made every reasonable effort to procure the gas at the lowest possible price, thus failing to conform to the legal requirement that service be rendered at the lowest possible rates.

Much of the argument contained in the city's brief dealt with evidence in support of the contention that the management of the company did not make a diligent effort to negotiate the purchase of its gas at the best price, and that there was misrepresentation by the company as to the rate which has already been paid.

The brief was filed by City Solicitor Tudor, Prosecuting Attorney Loucas Brown and Attorney Don Henderson, Lima.

FOUR PERSONS FINED IN TRAFFIC COURT

Judge Martin Makes Two $5 and Costs Assessments

Mrs. Harold Prendergast, Verano Heights-ht., paid a fine of $3 in municipal court this morning when she entered a plea of guilty before Judge William H. Martin to driving past the stop sign at Mt. Vernon av. and Church st., and also with driving through the stop sign at Center and Main sts.

Mrs. Prendergast told the court that she was driving between 25 and 30 miles an hour.

A $5 fine was also paid by W. G. Williams, Hotel Knudford, when he pleaded guilty to parking in a non-parking zone. Two $1 fines were paid by S. W. Collingwood, 250 Hamilton st., and Roy Cook, 180 Silver st., both pleaded guilty to parking in a non-parking zone.

PROBE ACTIVITIES OF WOMAN OFFICIAL

Mrs. Florence Knapp, Now York, Charged with Wasting Funds

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14—With testimony already presented that Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, paid her relatives thousands of dollars from the $1,200,000 state census fund, for work they never performed, further sensational disclosures were expected at the capital today.

Charges that Mrs. Knapp wasted $200,000 of the census money are being investigated by Randall J. Leboeuf, young Albany attorney. Leboeuf was appointed by Governor Smith as a Morland Act Commissioner to sift the charges made against Mrs. Knapp by the census commission.

Some state officials, a few political leaders, and a number of employees in various departments were reported to be on the anxious seat today because of the sweeping investigation launched by Leboeuf.

Miss Edna Morrison Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Mother

"Eczema broke out on my mother's fingers in little pimples that filled with water. Later the pimples broke and then feasted. It itched and burned causing her to scratch, many times waking her up in the night. The fifth winter it got so bad that she could neither open nor shut her hands, and it was nearly to her wrist. When she put her hands in water it hurt, and it was hard for her to do her work."

It may be the part of economic wisdom to abandon a number of useless navy yards along the Atlantic coast, as Admiral Magruder suggests, but the trouble is that they can not be abandoned without a lot of our federal legislators at the same time abandoning a lot of votes.

One can hardly blame that woman out in LaSalle, Illinois, for securing a divorce because her husband is serving a 150-year sentence in the Kansas penitentiary. No woman can reasonably be expected to wait for 150 years for her husband to get out of prison.

Despite all the knocking Mr. Mussolini has received, it must be admitted that he's a very reasonable man. He has made plain that he doesn't care a whit what people think if they manifest care not to divulge it to anybody.

Can it be that Miss Logan aspires to become the Doc Cook of Great Britain?

The Duvall Case.

The wires told us Thursday that Mayor John Duvall, of Indianapolis, despite the fact that he had been convicted of corrupt practices, sentenced to serve thirty days in jail, fined $1,000 and disfranchised for four years, refused to surrender the majority of the Hoosier capital.

Duvall declares that he will not resign until his appeal has been fought through the state supreme court. Even should he lose there and resign, he has so arranged, or at least he believes he has, for a succession which will restore him to the mayoralty. Duvall has sixty days in which to file an appeal. Meanwhile, his wife, named by him for just such an eventually, acts as city controller, ready to succeed him, as the city controller's comes first in the line of succession, should he resign or be declared ineligible to office. She has been advised by attorneys that she has the power to act as mayor until after her husband has served his jail term, and then, if she and Duvall so desire, she can appoint him to the city controllership and by her resignation reinstate him as mayor.

Duvall was charged with having given to William Armistage, leader of the Republican faction supposedly opposed to Duvall, $12,000 and a promise of controlling some patronage in return for Armistage's support. Armistage testified to this and there was contributory evidence, documents from D. C. Stephenson's black boxes figuring in the trial.

Despite this situation and other charges against him, some of them involving heavier penalties, Duvall not only holds on, but also has planned to keep the mayoralty, in one way or another, in the family.

It is almost inconceivable that anything so utterly in opposition to the spirit of the law and all sense of right and justice can be perpetrated and made to hold good by one convicted of corrupt practices, in the event that the proceedings of the trial court have the approval of the state supreme court. In that event, it would prove an outrage upon decency and the voters of Indianapolis as well. The case of the Fergusons down in Texas was bad enough. The Indiana case, in the event that the supreme court holds adversely to Duvall and his plan is carried out, would be infinitely worse.

It is hard to believe that there is no legal remedy for relief in such a case as this.

Failures Accentuate Success.

And now we record another attempt at a transatlantic flight over the long course which ended in failure—failure not because of want of ability on the part of the aviators or lack of courage, but failure none the less. Thursday's wires told us that Ruth Elder and Captain Haldeman, who hopped off from Roosevelt field in the American Girl late Tuesday afternoon, had been picked up at sea by a westwardly bound steamship at a point approximately 900 miles from the French coast.

As the weeks and months pass and attempt after attempt is made to cross the Atlantic over the great circle or other route approaching thereto ends in failure, the flight of Lindbergh becomes more and more spectacular and his accomplishment the more remarkable. He alone of all those who have made the attempt has made the long non-stop flight; he alone in a non-stop flight has reached his destination. Misfortune in one form or another has been suffered by all the other aviators who have essayed the flight, and a number of attempts, sad to record, have ended in tragedies.

What's the answer?

Were the weather conditions more favorable for the Lindbergh flight than those which were encountered by the other fliers? The weather people say not. Was it the result of his reasoning that by making a solo flight he would reduce the load which his plane otherwise would have to carry? Possibly. Was it in part due to the fact that in his case there was no possibility of a conflict of judgment which might result in a compromise? Was it pure luck, as originally was held by some, or better judgment on his part than the others possessed, or closer study of possible weather conditions to be encountered, or was it the possession by him of a sense of direction which the others lacked? The list of possible questions along this line is almost limitless. And none of them ever may be answered satisfactorily. But this is known. Of all the aviators who have made the attempt, he alone started out without any brass band effects. He alone hopped off when he was satisfied that the weather conditions, though discouraging ashore, were propitious at sea. He alone accurately followed the course he had mapped out. He alone sighted land on the other side at the point at which he aimed and he alone in a non-stop flight landed safely and on time at his destination.

And a remarkable phase of the situation is that time has demonstrated that of all those who have attempted to make the flight from this side and landed on the other, the first was infinitely the best fitted to make an appeal which restored a friendship between our people and the French which confessedly had cooled considerably. Lindbergh proved an ideal ambassador of good will and friendship. His boyish smile, his seeming diffidence, his utter lack of ostentation over his accomplishment, his absolute lack of inclination to put on what is sometimes slantly referred to as a show, the very naïveté of his introduction of himself to the crowd upon landing at La Bourget, "I am Charles Lindbergh," made a composite which proved irresistible, and won the hearts of the French as no other combination possibly would. In a word, he was his sterling self, and he "wore," not only in Paris, but in Brussels and London as well.

At times we have wondered if there may not have been divine design behind it all.

What a poor, benighted lot those natives of Africa must be! Report has them taking to clothing.

The American Girl wasn't sighted from the time she was reported 500 miles out of New York by the American Banker. If she was picked up 900 miles off the French coast by the Baron de Hottel. One can get mighty lonely out in the middle of the Atlantic.

Lord and Lady Plunket, returning to their home in London from a Hawaiian trip, stopped off in Chicago and pronounced that city "perfectly charming," which naturally forces the conclusion that the stock yards breeze was blowing the other way that day.

Citing the fact that we have 1,300,000 laws, 93,000 having been added to the list last year, a Mississippi judge says the United States has gone crazy on law-making. We aren't personally acquainted with the judge, but we feel safe in commending him as one possessed of great moderation of expression.

Perhaps no more significant comment on the trend of the times can be offered than a statement we came upon in Thursday's Star under the likeness of a Miss Elizabeth Blair to the effect that, although she does not smoke, drink or dance, she has been elected by the men students as the most popular co-ed on the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college campus. Some handicap to carry in this day and age.

Vagrant Verse.

THE DENTIST'S WAITING-ROOM BLUES.

Were you ever kept debating
With yourself and hesitating
Whether you should flee or wait?
Meet the dentist face to face?
Did you conjure up the still room
Just ahead of Satan's will room,
Grim Mephisto's fill-and-draw room,
Where there lurks lo lo pity trace?

Then you've had those tantalizing
Nothing-but-can-be-surprising
Life-is-meant-for-agonizing.

Now has come the fatal hour—
When the clouds begin to lower—
I agree with Schopenhauer.

Were you forced to ponder weekly
Each dog-eared and ancient weekly
While subconsciously and bleakly
You prepared to meet the worst?
Did you look at stative
Chronos meant to be artistic?
Did your mood turn fierce and spite
As your throat went dry with thirst?

Then you've had those victimizer—
Temporary-paralyser—
Hole-in-molar-or-incisor.

Waiting-room-and fly-specked ceiling—
Bad-but-pain-reviving—
Oh it's just an awful feeling.

Many Lanes to Plain Headache.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A few days ago I told about a fine old man, ninety-eight years of age, who said he hadn't had a headache for fifty years. This is a remarkable experience and worthy of comment.

Some persons are rarely free from headache. Some have the symptoms every Sunday. Others have it periodically, perhaps once a month.

The brain is the presiding organ, the most important of all our parts. It is enthroned in a bony temple, the skull. It has charge of the nervous system and, through it, of every part of the body.

You are familiar with the exacting duties of a train dispatcher. He sits in his office and directs the movement of every engine on his district. He is the absolute dictator of the railroad traffic.

In a similar way, the brain presides over the activities of the body and its organs. It directs the forces having to do with life.

An organ so important must be guarded against all harm. On this account the hard skull was provided. But the brain has more covering than this. It is encased in a tough, fibrous jacket, which in turn covers a delicate membrane, immediately in contact with the brain.

These coverings are known as the "meninges." An inflammation of this region is called "meningitis." Fortunately, this disease is not common, and it is not common because the brain and its membranes are so carefully protected.

One of the chief features of the meninges is the richness of the blood supply. There are many, many blood vessels.

Anything that tends too much blood to the brain causes the vessels to be crowded with blood. The pain becomes congested. Then there will be headache.

This particular variety is called a "congestive headache." The face and eyes are red. The head feels swollen as if it would burst. There are throbbing pains, made worse by every step or jar. Bright lights and noises increase the agony. Life seems hardly worth living.

Full-blooded persons or those who have high blood pressure are particularly liable to have congestive headaches. You see it takes only a little extra blood to crowd the already well-filled vessels.

Over-exertion, too long exposure to the sun and indiscretions in eating or drinking are among the causes of this kind of headache. Overfed persons are particularly subject to this form.

It is very important to do away with any article of dress which interferes with the return of the blood from the head. Tight collars and neckbands which hug the throat should be removed. In the old days of tight corsets, congestive headaches were more common than they are with the more sensible dressing of today.

Firm pressure of a tight bandage around the head sometimes relieves this headache. It is worth trying.

To empty the bowels and cut down on the food are good things to do. Cold compresses, a cool, dark room and perfect quiet help a lot.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES
D. R. R. Q.—What treatment is suggested for high blood pressure? I am troubled with this condition and nervous. I have been taking aspirin and feel that it has helped me, but am fearful of taking too much medicine. Would this be harmful?

A.—The diet is of great importance and should be specially advised in every instance. The nausea is due to some intestinal trouble. Be sure to avoid constipation; proper diet should also prove corrective in this regard. If you doctor has advised the medicine, following his judgment.—Copyright, 1927.

Editorial Comment.

PRIMO DE RIVERA'S THREAT.

The statement by Primo de Rivera that Spain might be better off without its Moroccan possessions, seems to foreshadow new developments in the delicate international problem created by the Spanish claim to a large share in the administrative and political control of North Africa.

Along with Spain, the powers directly concerned in the Moroccan question are Great Britain and France, both of which are anxious to avoid serious disturbance in the scheme established for Tangier and the hinterland by the existing treaties. To Madrid the arrangement at first seemed satisfactory enough, but even de Rivera was unable to prevent his countrymen from reckoning up the tremendous losses in lives and treasure caused by the long and disastrous Rifian campaign. When the dictator publicly avows that the game wasn't worth the candle, he merely expresses a conviction which the people of Spain have long entertained.

Whether the Spanish government is prepared to relinquish its Moroccan holdings without further ado, is another matter. Its contention has always been that, with wider authority in its special zone, and with a bigger part in the policing of the port of Tangier, Spain could easily keep the Rifians in place.

For sufficient reasons of their own, Britain and France refused to yield to the Spanish demands, and de Rivera seems now to be attempting to break through this solid front of opposition. If carried out, his threat to get out of Morocco would, in his calculations, set both Paris and London worrying as to which of them should take over the abandoned responsibilities. The British have shown no eagerness to assume added burdens in this region; but this does not mean that they could remain indifferent if France were to try to occupy the Spanish zone.

The program may or may not be an outcome of de Rivera's recent secret conference with Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, but the impression is that the Spanish dictator intends to employ his threat to win British support in his effort to make France come to terms.—Detroit Free Press.

A GOLD MINE IN THE ONION PATCH.

A hundred and seventy-five acres of Bermuda onions, the first ever planted in Hennepin county, this year yielded a cash crop estimated at three hundred thousand dollars, shared by numerous progressive farmers among whom the young plants had been distributed last spring by County Agent Kirkpatrick.

The Bermudas mature ahead of the varieties normally grown in Minnesota, and hence reach market at a time when prices are high. This year's experiment, which opens a source of increased wealth to Hennepin farmers, was begun by Mr. Kirkpatrick, after he had come into possession of three million young plants which a brokerage house found it could not sell.

The brokerage house did a good stroke of business for itself with this gift, by creating a permanent demand here for Bermuda plants. The farmers did a good stroke of business for themselves, through the discovery of a way to make more money than they had been making. And Mr. Kirkpatrick did a good stroke of business for himself by demonstrating once more the great value of the services of an alert county agent.

Here is a deal, then, in which everybody is winner and nobody loser.—Minneapolis Journal.

Today's Events.

Friday, October 14, 1927.
Greetings to Mrs. Edith B. Wilson, widow of President Woodrow Wilson, on her fifty-fifth birthday anniversary.

Centenary of the birth of William M. Stone, who was governor of Iowa 1864-68.

Centenary of the birth of General James S. Robinson, noted civil war commander and representative in congress from Ohio.

Centenary of the birth of James C. Carter, eminent New York lawyer, who was one of the counsel of the United States in the Bering sea controversy.

England today observed the centenary of the birth of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, the great Liberal leader who was called "the finest political gladiator of his age."

Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller foundation, was the speaker at today's dedication of Vanderbilt hall, the new dormitory of Harvard Medical school.

One of the biggest air meets ever attempted in New England was inaugurated at Providence today in honor of the opening of the new airport near that city.

A former lord mayor of New York, England, and the governors of a number of the thirteen original states were guests of York, Pennsylvania, today at the sequacious celebration of the meeting of the Continental congress at that place.

Discussion of the proposed union of the several so-called liberal denominations will be the chief feature of the biennial general convention of the Universalist church, which met at Hartford, Connecticut, today for a week's session.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Somebody has said that intelligent discontent is developed by advertising. It is well said. Go into the well-furnished homes of thousands of workmen in this country and realize that a large part of the improvement in their condition is due to the fact that they have heeded advertising. Better wages do not of themselves make better homes. Better wages do not by themselves lift the family to a higher level and hold it there. Advertising does that. Money fills wants, but advertising creates the wants.

Some time ago Melkielejohn, who is making a reputation as a teacher in the University of Wisconsin, made a speech in Carnegie hall, New York. "America," he said, "is overwhelmed with our riches. Why, then, is life not good? Simply because we do not know the difference between good and bad, fine and vulgar, high and low."

That's a serious indictment of all of us and pretty much true. How fortunate we should be if we only had the brains and the spirit and the power to measure in advance the things that will yield results of peace and happiness! Without thinking things through, we choose the sensation of the moment, the immediate pleasure. We grasp the thing we think we want, though we really haven't thought of it all. We seem to lack the power to wait and measure. We lack the power to proceed deliberately.

A thoughtful New York judge advocates permanently locking up the mentally unfit, so that they can not marry and have children. We have, of course, institutions, but they house but a small part of those they ought to house. The judge wisely says that a weak strain in livestock—whether it is a horse, cow or pig—is eliminated by proper selection. The community permits the unfit to mate with the fit and huge families of defectives are the result.

That's the kind of problem that the leaders of this republic, in state and nation, back away from. But it is the most important problem of the race. Some day, in some way, it will have to be met or there isn't much hope for civilization in the long run.

Perhaps you have more to say than you realize about the day of your death. Dr. William Mayo, of Rochester, who knows as much about the human body as anybody, says we can delay our death by five years if, at the age of forty, we will have a good physical examination and abide by the rules that are laid down. Few will do that because it is inconvenient. Most people can stand hardship without the test comes. Few will do that because it is inconvenient. Most people can stand hardship without the test comes. Few will do that because it is inconvenient. Most people can stand hardship without the test comes.

Twenty Years Ago.

This day was Monday.
A party made up of Colonel C. W. Fisher, of Bucyrus; Joseph Hastings, of LaRue; Samuel Phillips, of Marseilles, and J. E. Phillips, W. H. Schaffner, W. T. Jones, W. A. Munstinger, S. B. Lippincott, A. E. Bush, J. E. Schaeffer, Fred Haberman and A. C. Edmundson left on a hunting and fishing trip into northern Michigan.

During the preceding night, the weatherman reported, the temperature fell to twenty-four degrees above zero.

MAJOR GENERAL EDGAR JADWIN.

Edgar Jadwin was born at Honesdale, Pennsylvania, August 7, 1865. He was educated at Lafayette college, Easton, Pennsylvania, and the United States Military academy. Jadwin entered the army service in 1890 as a lieutenant of engineers and was rapidly promoted through the grades to the rank of brigadier general in 1924, when he was made assistant to the chief of engineers and to the present rank as major general. Major General Jadwin commanded the first American regiment to pass through England under arms during the World War.

General Jadwin intimates the probable expansion of our waterway systems. He says: "The plan for the Mississippi system, as the case of our national waterway plan as a whole, is a living, growing thing. Each year we develop and expand it. Each year, as new localities and new waterways become ripe for development or for further improvement, army engineers study them and recommend new work to congress.

Our Great Lakes harbors and connecting channels, with an annual commerce of 137,000,000 tons, also return a dividend of over 100 per cent, on their costs, which totals a little over $160,000,000.

PYTHIANS PLAN FOR "BOOSTER" MEETING

Steps Taken To Arrange Program at Regular Session of Uniform Rank

Marion Company No. 15, Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias, took steps at its weekly session last night to prepare plans for a county "booster" meeting proposed for the latter part of November or early in December, with Frederick Atwood, of Minneapolis, supreme lodge prelate, as the principal speaker.

At the meeting last night, the Uniform Rank made arrangements to send representatives to all Pythian lodges in the county during the next two weeks for the purpose of urging general co-operation in plans for the county gathering.

This part of the roll call drive, scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 13, beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, will include a complete house-to-house canvass of the residential districts.

Ruth and Judd Model Prisoners, Warden Says

SPEND MOST OF THEIR TIME READING WHILE AWAITING APPEAL

SING, SING PRISON, Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 14—Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, condemned to die in the electric chair for the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder, are well-behaved prisoners, awaiting their fate calmly, according to Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing Prison.

They never see each other and have not exchanged a word since they were brought within the prison walls of the jail on May 18. They occupy much of their time by reading while awaiting a hearing of their case on appeal on Oct. 21.

In an interview today, Warden Lawes said there is no truth in unauthorized stories that the two notorious prisoners have become gloom and uncommunicative; that Gray has sunk into a mood of deep reflection and lost his appetite; or that Mrs. Snyder is worrying because she is getting fat.

MRS. SNYDER looks about the same as when she entered," said Warden Lawes. "There are no scales in the prison so I don't know whether she is getting fat or not. I do know she eats well, three times a day—breakfast at 7, dinner at noon and supper at 5 o'clock.

"She is the only woman in the deathhouse. There are three cells in the women's section, and she is in the middle cell. She has been in good spirits right along. There is a cot, a table, and a wash stand in her cell. Night and day a matron sits in the corridor outside her cell, keeping watch on her. There is a shower at the end of the corridor which she is permitted to use.

"The lights in the prison go out at 11 o'clock but we keep a light in her corridor all night as a precaution. The deathhouse where she is located is close to the Hudson River, with an exercise yard near by. She exercises half an hour each day, and frequently takes walks in the yard. It has brick walls on three sides and a concrete floor. The only scenery she ever sees is the sky. She can't see trees or buildings because the walls are too high.

"She has had her hair bobbed but once since she came here. She sometimes spends a little money in the prison commissary. Prisoners are allowed to spend as much as $3 a day in the institution commissary. Her only visitors have been her lawyers and her mother and those visits, as far as we know, have been uneventful. She reads a great deal, newspapers, books and magazines, and has given us no trouble at all."

JUDD GRAY is in the men's section, 100 feet from Mrs. Snyder's cell. There are 10 men besides Gray in the deathhouse. He can, and does, talk to them, but also of Marion, are also affiliated with the Theta Chi fraternity.

STUDENTS BALK AT NEW DANCING RULE

Women's Student Government Association Imposes New Law on O. S. U. Co-Eds

Marion Star Bureau Ohio State University Columbus, Oct. 14—A new rule, providing for the closing of all dances on the Ohio State campus in time so the co-eds will be at their respective sorority and rooming houses by 12:45 a. m. is causing much dissension among the university students, men as well as women.

Where formerly fraternity and sorority dances on week-ends closed at 1 o'clock and sometimes later for formal occasions, and a period of 45 minutes was allowed for the women students to sign-in at their respective abodes, all dances will now close at midnight, the rule states.

The new law was passed by the Women's Student Government Association a few days ago, independent of any suggestions or advice of the university officials. Dean of Women Esther A. Gaw, who enforces the rules for the women students, was entirely ignorant of the action of the association but gave her approval of the new rule, she told the press.

The action was taken, the association officers state, to provide a uniform time for the girl students to be in their rooming houses. The usual returning time for a co-ed on week-end nights has been 12 o'clock but in case the student was attending a dance, a special time allowance was given.

If the new rule is not repealed by university officials, Greek organizations on the campus are planning to start their dances an hour or so earlier than the usual time, so that the dancing period will be as long as before.

GOVERNOR OF DISTRICT HERE

Dayton Man Attends Luncheon of Kiwanis Club at Hotel Harding

In addition to Coach George Gauthier of the Ohio Wesleyan University football team, members of the Harding high school squad and wives of members who have charge of the quilt and coverlet exhibit to be staged next month, members of the Kiwanis club had as their unexpected guest at their luncheon yesterday, Howard Smith, Dayton, governor of the Ohio district of Kiwanis clubs.

Governor Smith, who arrived late, addressed the boys of the football squad following an address by Coach Gauthier of Delaware. The occurrence in his talk exposed the belief that more time and thought be given athletics in both schools and colleges.

It is by the development of athletics in schools and colleges that boys are given the physical training that will fit them for the battles of life which they must face later the speaker pointed out.

Gauthier Talks

Coach Gauthier who was the first speaker also stressed the importance of athletics in the schools. He laid special stress on the valuable training obtained by those who play in the football squads. The football teams at Wesleyan are open to every boy in the college who has any desire to play, the speaker said. Even though they do not make the first team, the training they receive both physical and mental, will be of great benefit to them in the later years of their life, Coach Gauthier said.

The same spirit of the game, with which they become imbued on the football gridiron, the same training of clean living and clean thinking, the same ability to play the game square that makes them good football players, will make them good citizens, the speaker pointed out.

SOCIETY MEETS

Woman's Foreign Missionary Group
Holds Session at Epworth

Mrs. Fred Zuck and Mrs. J. E. Messinger were enrolled as members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, Epworth M. E. Church, at a well-attended meeting yesterday afternoon in the junior room of the church. Mrs. Minerva Drake was made a life member of the organization.

A report of the convention of the Cincinnati Branch of the M. E. Church at Akron recently was given by Mrs. Charles Aikin. Mrs. Scott Grey conducted devotionals.

The program, in charge of Mrs. Aikin, opened with a paper given by Mrs. B. J. George on the subject, "Overcoming" from the first chapter of the supplementary study book. Mrs. Frank Knapp beautifully gave the chapter of the study book, "Straightway Towards Tomorrow," and Mrs. S. Walker, Mrs. L. S. Grey and Mrs. F. D. Morrison, the "Air Mail Messages." The session closed with the singing of "Blessed be the Tie That Binds," followed by a social hour, when refreshments were served by the social committee of which Mrs. Carl Thew is chairman.

The next regular meeting will be the annual "guest day" program Nov. 10 in the church parlors.

CHURCH RECEPTION

Wesley M. E. Congregation Honors New Pastor and Wife

About 200 members of Wesley M. E. Church and guests were present at a reception arranged by church officials and given last night in the parlors of the church for the new pastor, Rev. George A. Whitlock, Mrs. Whitlock and their daughter and three sons.

Dr. H. E. Arniest of Delaware, district superintendent of the Delaware District of the M. E. Church, gave the address of welcome. Rev. Newman Blomer presiding. Dr. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. Church, was heard in an interesting talk and the men's chorals of Wesley Church in several delightful vocal numbers. Miss Crystal Orr playing their accompaniment at the piano. Readings were given by Mrs. H. W. Baumgartner and Miss Nyla Miller. Rev. W. Patow, pastor of Prospect Street M. E. Church, led the prayers and pronounced the benediction.

CALVARY CLASS HOLDS ITS REGULAR MEETING

Sixty members and seven guests were present at the meeting of the Emma Berger Bible Class, Calvary Evangelical Church, last night at the home of Mrs. C. F. Barringer, 222 Orchard-st. The business session and program opened with prayer by the teacher of the class, Mrs. E. F. Tittelbaug. Luncheon was served by the committee in charge. There will be no meeting in November, on account of the revival at the church, it was announced.

Women's Federated Clubs
Opens Season's Program

An interesting talk on the subject, "A New Interpretation of Hamlet," by Dr. J. C. Denny, head of the Department of English, Ohio State University, a group of delightful vocal numbers by Mrs. E. G. Holzhauser and an instructive talk on a number of ecchings and block prints by Mrs. Glenna Cleveland, of the Art Club, was the entertaining continuation of the season for members of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday afternoon in the ballroom at Hotel Harding. The program hour was preceded by a short business session.

Mrs. Lewis Uhl, who will preside as president again this year, expressed her hopes for the success of the club year which comes through the co-operative club spirit. She announced the names of Mrs. Grover Snyder as conservation chairman and Mrs. Frank M. Knapp as motion picture chairman.

During the business session Mrs. Uhl and Mrs. John McNamara, vice president of the federation, were elected delegates to the annual conference of the Central District of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs to be held Oct. 27 and 28 in Coshocton. Mrs. H. R. Henderson, secretary, and Mrs. C. F. Davidson, treasurer, were chosen alternates.

Program Opening
Mrs. John McNamara presided as chairman for the program which opened with Mrs. Holzhauser's songs, "When Day Is Done," by Sterling, and "Good-bye," Teoti. Her accompaniments were played by Mrs. James C. Woods.

Y. C. Smith, former pupil of Dr. Denny, introduced the speaker of the afternoon who presented a version of Hamlet entirely new to students of Shakespeare and inspiring to those who have only read the poet. He pointed Shakespeare as a producer who utterly disregarded consistency in his story, making the scene of the moment the only matter of consequence. His power of characterization and the immense variety in his play, permitting each one to find in it something of himself, Dr. Denny declared were the things which made Hamlet popular through the ages.

Mrs. Cleveland discussed a number of ecchings and prints from the exhibit of Blandine Sloan, a rising young artist of America, born in Texas, educated in New York City and residing in San Francisco. Members of the executive board of the federation will meet Friday night, Oct. 21, at the library.

Members of the executive board of the federation will meet Friday night, Oct. 21, at the library.

Luncheon was served by Mrs. Kerr and the assistant hostess, Mrs. Vernon Dutton. The next regular meeting will be with Mrs. John Abel in one month at her home, Pleasant Acres.

ALLIANCE MEETS

Mrs. Chester Weir Hostess to Woman's Missionary Society

Mrs. Chester Weir was hostess to members of the Woman's Universalist Missionary Alliance, yesterday afternoon at her home, Paten-st. Mrs. Elizabeth Lumbert, president of the organization, presided for the devotion service and during a short business session it was voted to send $10 on the Japan Kindergarten Pledge. Arrangements also were made for a bake sale and bazaar in the near future and for an all-day sewing Oct. 27 at the home of Mrs. C. G. Francis, Kensington-pl. A parcel post sale will be held in connection with the sewing meeting. Mrs. Weir was assisted in serving lunch during the social hour by Miss Mabel Hinkley. Guests of the afternoon were Mrs. James Morehart, Mrs. V. C. McLaughlin and Mrs. George Ush. The next meeting will be held Nov. 10 with Mrs. George Greiser, E. Washington-av.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "HONEY LUCK," "THE HOLLYWOOD BRIDES"

CHAPTER XXVII

JOHN NYE'S big brown automobile was standing before the apartment house when Sally turned into the street that warm October night.

Her bright headlights silhouetted the car in front of it, and dimmed the stars in the sky above it. As Sally stepped out of it, it gave a long loud rumble and Millie's gay voice came out to her:

"Hello, you, Sally! Where you been? We've been waiting for you for an hour."

"Waiting?" echoed Sally, crossing the sidewalk and coming to a standstill in the brown car. "Why were you waiting for me?"

"In the darkness above the dashlight, we could make out Millie's small white face and beyond it John Nye's dark eyes."

It was he who answered her. "I'm making an 11 o'clock train to town, Miss Jerome," he said. "And you're going to drive me down to the garage and keep the car until I come back to town. I thought perhaps you'd come down with us and then she would have to come back alone."

"Sally nodded her head in the darkness. "All right, I'll run down first and see if Mother has anything she needs."

"I did that, dear," said Millie, at the very sweetest. "She'll be all right when we get back." She leaned back in her seat and opened the rear door of the car.

But Sally hesitated. . . . Millie might as well be telling the truth about her mother. Millie was more capable of turning the truth when it pleased her to do it.

"Did you give her her hot milk?" she asked uncertainly. "And find her glasses for her, and help her into her clothes for the night?"

"Oh, for heaven's sake, yes!" Millie snapped impatiently. "I do you know I'd say I had if I didn't positively know she was comfortable? You know I wouldn't."

But Sally knew that she would if she felt like it. She racked her brains, but she couldn't remember a single time when Millie had done anything towards making Mrs. Jerome comfortable and content.

But, without half trying, she could recall any number of times when Millie had scolded her mother for demanding so much waiting upon.

"She may be sick," she had often said crossly to Sally. "But, she's not sick that she couldn't keep me. She can read all day and half the night, and that doesn't seem to injure her health!"

But Millie was singing an altogether different tune now. "We've just

"Jimmy! I do hope Mother's all right now," she thought anxiously. "I wish I hadn't taken Millie's word for it."

"Let's hurry a bit," she said when John Nye's train had pulled out, and she and Millie were back in the brown car.

Then it came to her that Millie had just learned to drive, and that it would not be safe for her to drive fast. "No, maybe you'd better not hurry," she went on as they started off. "Tel says a new driver ought to go slowly—keep the car under control."

"New driver?" What do you mean, new driver?" asked Millie, with a disdainful lift of her chin. "I've known how to shift gears and everything since I was a car for two years."

"Sally gave her a quick, puzzled look. "Why—But John Nye was just helping you on the way down," she said, and Millie gave a shout of scornful laughter.

"He thinks he taught me to drive," said she. "He had a swell time, showing me how to shift gears and everything. So I let him go ahead and treat me like a dumbbell. He got a great boot out of it."

Sally frowned. "But what was the idea of not telling him that you knew how to drive?"

This time Millie groaned in mock despair. Sally, you just never will learn anything about men, will you?" she asked. "Don't you know that they just adore an innocent little simp of a girl who doesn't know enough to drive a car or come in out of the rain?"

At least, the Johnny Nye type of real he-man does! If I told him that Davidson taught me to drive, he'd wonder how well I knew Davidson, and if he put his arms around me when he showed me how to steer around the corners, and so on."

"Did Davidson teach you to drive?" Sally asked, and Millie nodded vigorously.

"I'll tell the waiting world that he did! He taught me to smoke, too, and he mixed me the first high-ball I ever raised to my lips," she replied, and her voice grew more and more wistful as she went on talking. "I had a circus with Davidson, always, but he's not the marrying kind. My Johnny's nice, and he has a lot of money and he'll make a perfect husband for me."

Sally tried to answer but failed. There was a lump in her throat that kept her painfully silent.

"I sure do miss Davy Davidson, though," the light voice beside her ran on. "He knew how to show a girl a good time. . . . Now, you take John Nye. He's much too polite for me! He thinks that no nice girl would step inside of a road-house! His own sister never was allowed to go to the theater before she got married."

"I don't know whether I can live up to such a family or not! I like pep, and plenty of it."

"It's all settled, then, that you're going to marry John Nye?" asked Sally, as they turned into their own driveaway and parked the brown car in the tiny backyard.

"Oh, I don't know. He hasn't said anything about it yet," Millie said. "But, Jimmy, it certainly looks as if he means business, doesn't it? Leading me his car, and giving me that gold vanity case and all those books and things. Oh, I'm sure he's serious. Sally, I can tell whether a man likes me or not."

In silence they climbed the stairs. "I think I'll give Davy a ring tomorrow, and see what he becomes of him," Millie mused aloud, watching Sally unlock the door. "Johnny said something about taking on a salesman in the office and I thought I might tell Davy to go up and see him about it when he gets home. Davy was a wonderful salesman for Burwell."

Sally shook her head gravely. "Oh, I wouldn't do that!" she cried. "But when Millie asked her why, she had no answer for her."

She simply felt that it would not be fair to Millie to have one of her old sweethearts in the same office with herself and John Nye. It wouldn't be—she fished for the right word—sporting! And if Millie didn't really love John, why on earth did she want to marry him? Just for money?

Mrs. Jerome was still awake. She was sitting in her room, sipping a tall glass of hot water and groaning with a pain in her side.

"I ought to be in a hospital," she declared, "where I'd have someone to look after me. To think of Millie running off tonight and leaving me alone for hours! And I haven't had a bite of supper!"

Then, in the next breath, she asked Sally to bring her a plate of bread and butter. "It may stop this fearful gnawing in my stomach," she sighed, and ate every crumb of it with great gusto.

"I don't feel well either," Millie told her, sitting on the arm of her chair. "I've had a headache for three days. If I didn't have to hold down a job, I'd stay in bed all day tomorrow."

For the first time Sally noticed that she really did not look well. Her cheeks were thin, and her eyes seemed enormous in her drawn face.

"Isn't it fierce—terrible—awful to be poor?" she asked, looking up at Sally. "Here's poor mother, all run down. What she needs is sea air, and if we had money I could put her on a train and take her to some ocean resort or the ridge first, and the winner shall have a fair chance to bring up the blind burrower. Right-o! Now you're on the right road. Good luck to you, babies!"

"Twelve after one! Poor Mr. Mole is in bad luck."

Peter looked about to find the speaker, but the lady, whoever it was, kept out of sight.

"Twelve after one! Poor Mr. Mole is in bad luck."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! What can the matter be? Danger in sight of Mrs. Rabbit would never be accomplishing through the field like that."

"Just watch her! She isn't even taking time for a nibble and never in my life have I seen her race through the clover without so much as a peeping bite at the pink and white tops!"

The spunky voice sounded much nearer than it had at first. Just to the right of the Rabbit Hole lay a fallen log, and out from behind this log peeped a whiskered face. Catching sight of Peter standing at the Rabbit Hole, the creature wrinkled its long nose, wiggled its ears and showed its sharp teeth.

Madge Theorizes

LILLIAN and I had no chance to exchange another glance as Miss Lincoln finished her story of her childhood fright which she had woven into a plausible apology for her action at the sound of an owl's hoot. The young woman's eyes scanned our faces as she talked and I surprised that she was watching eagerly to see our reaction to her narrative.

Of course she saw nothing but polite belief in her story coupled with conventional sympathy for her fright, of which, at least, there was not the slightest doubt. Her story of her childhood experience and the fear of owls which had pursued her was unconvincing, but there was no mistaking the genuine terror, and the real awe which the sound of the owl's hoot had caused.

"Please do not give it another thought," I said. "You haven't inconvenienced us in the least. I am only sorry that you should have been subjected to such an experience. But I am sure you will not be annoyed again, this evening at least. Mr. Graham dashed into the yard as soon as you awakened, and I am sure he has driven off the owl which so disturbed you."

The color which had been creeping back into her face, fled again at my words, and her eyes widened with a terror which threatened the fantastic suspicion that had flashed into my mind when she had fainted. I was quite sure now that the weird sound which had so startled her, had not been the hoot of an owl, but a realistic imitation of the sound, a signal of some sort which she had recognized, and which had terrified her.

It had not been exactly cricket to tell her of Dick's search—I half regretted the impulse which had led me to mention it. But I could not be wholly sorry. There was altogether too much mystery about my young neighbor, I told myself in extenuation of my little speech, especially as a logical following up of my fantastic imagination would lead my restless imagination to the vagabonds summering in the woodland shack back of the farm, one of whom, a Transylvanian had so frightened her upon the occasion of our first visit to The Larches. Therefore I watched her furtively as she sought her terror and conquered it. She had both courage and poise, I admitted as an instant she spoke in clear unflattering tones.

"That is really very kind of Mr. Graham," she said. "But it really is not necessary. I am perfectly all right now. It is only because I had not heard an owl's hoot for so long that I shall be prepared to hear one now at any time, and you may be sure I shall not be so idiotic as to faint again."

I knew that she spoke only the truth in her last decisive words. It was patent to all of us that she had retained her self-possession. But I could not help questioning what cryptic meaning might not lie behind her quiet assertion that she would be prepared to hear an owl's hoot at any time. The vision of the red-headed vagabond and his more villainous-looking companion. It was in vain I told myself that my fantastic conjecture belonged in the same category with Katie's movie-mad imaginations. My theory still refused to be ousted, even though Miss Lincoln's face and voice now betrayed no hint of the terror, which she had suffered.

A Story of Boyhood

Adventure

BY JUD M. LEWIS

Today and Friday, and not so very warm. I asked my father if I might take Frank-horse out for exercise and he said I might, so me and Nibs and Banty and Hopper got on him after breakfast and with all of our dogs after us we went for a gallop up past the school, and then up Peach street to the paved street and down that, and then I pulled on the rein to turn him into a side street and go back home so that we could get to school in time and a horn honked and then the next I knew we were scattered all over the street. Nibs was on his stomach with his head sticking up like a mud-turtle looking around, Banty was on his hussel looking kinda surprised with his green face, and Hopper was crawling after his crutch and I was on my stomach hanging onto the reins and looking at Frank-horse, and he was on his side with his head up looking around like he was wondering what was going to happen next. And there was a woman and a little girl stopped almost against Frank-horse's stomach in an automobile, and people were running from all directions, and Jubilee was trying to lick my face. Then the lady began getting out of the car and all began getting up, and Frank-horse got up, and the lady said "Are any of you hurt?" and I said "No mom," and she looked like she felt better, and then she got a look at Banty's face which was green yet from the disand she almost fainted.

She had to set down on the step of her car and her little girl was crying, and she said to Banty: "Are you sure you aren't hurt?" and he said, "No mom," and she said "What's the matter with your face?" and Banty said, "Oh, that's a birthmark." And I said, "I guess she had never seen anyone with a green birthmark. I wonder what kind of birthmark the Irish have. She gave Banty two bits, and told me to hold out my hand the next time I was going to make a turn."

We had all we could do to get Frank-horse back to the barn and spend all of the two bits before it was time for school. But we made it. I found out all about hobbling out your hand when you are going to slow up or turn either way, and all of our bunch does it now even when they are walking. It is quite a lot of fun.

Peble came out tonight, and while her folks and my folks were playing bridge we tipped over a pan of milk. I was sorry but Annabelle Lee was along so we blamed it on her. I didn't have to go to bed till they went home.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

THE SECRET OF MY FLAKY, TENDER pie crust

I CONFESS I have always been rather proud of my pie crust. But recently I have found a way to make my pastry "shorter," flakier and more tender than ever before. The secret is in the shortening I use. Since I changed to Crisco I wouldn't think of using any other cooking fat. I am sure if you will try Crisco in the following recipe for plain pastry, you too will never return to your former old-fashioned shortening with its uncertain results.

Plain Pastry

2 cups flour 1/2 cup Crisco 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup water

Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in the Crisco with a knife. Add only water enough to hold the ingredients together. Do not knead. Chill thoroughly. Divide dough in two parts and roll out thin on a slightly floured board. Line a pie pan with one-half the pastry. Pinch pastry with the fingers to make a fancy edge and prick bottom and sides with a fork. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. For a 2 very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 10 to 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Bake in a quick oven (425 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate oven (325 degrees F.) and bake 20 minutes.

If a less rich pastry is desired, use only 1/4 cup Crisco.

TWO DIFFERENT AND DELICIOUS PIES

Chocolate Cream Pie

3 tablespoons Crisco 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup sugar 2 egg yolks 1/2 cup milk 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/4 cup unsweetened chocolate 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar 1 cup sugar 1 egg whites

Melt Crisco. Add flour, milk, chocolate (cut in pieces), sugar and salt, and bring slowly to the boiling point, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from the fire and add beaten egg yolks and vanilla. Pour into a baked pie shell (see Plain Pastry). Cover with a meringue made by beating the confectioner's sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until a delicate brown.

Whipped cream may be used instead of the meringue.

(All measurements level)

Pineapple Pie

1/2 cup flour 2 cups cooked or canned pineapple, cut in small pieces 1/2 cup sugar 3 egg yolks 1/2 cup milk 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/4 cup unsweetened chocolate 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar 1 cup sugar 1 egg whites

Mix flour, sugar and salt together. Add the pineapple juice and water and bring slowly to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Cook 15 minutes over hot water. Remove from fire, add Crisco and well drained pineapple. Pour this mixture on the beaten egg yolks and mix well. Pour the filling into a baked pie shell (see Plain Pastry). Cover with a meringue made by beating the confectioner's sugar into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until a delicate brown.

(All measurements level)

is used by Mrs. George O. Thurn in the Marion Star Cooking School being conducted this week.

To test your cooking fat—taste it. Crisco's sweet flavor will astonish you.

"In the more severe cases of neuritis, the pains are piercing—just like hot daggers cutting into the nerves," said the Konjola Man a few days ago at

"Many authorities have stated that the agony of neuritis is likened unto an electrical shock; the shooting pains may grab the sufferer at frequent intervals. Some call this affliction 'neuritis', others say it is like rheumatism, but, in either event, it is a terrible affliction and one of the most agonizing diseases that mankind is heir to," continued the Konjola Man.

"It is surprising what this new medical preparation, Konjola, will accomplish in so many instances of neuritis suffering. By invigorating the inner organs to healthy action, and stimulating the liver and kidneys, the poisons throughout the system are eliminated; the nerves become stronger, and within a brief space of time, this Konjola brings amazing relief to the neuritis sufferer. Where drugs and heart-weakening chemicals only produce temporary relief, this Konjola seems to go to the very seat of the trouble, and restores a healthy, normal condition in a natural way, so that the pains do not return. Many Marion people have taken Konjola for the suffering pains of neuritis, and instances of complete recovery are reported day after day. Just recently, Mr. George R. Tobey, well-known Marion citizen, living at R. F. D. 2, this city, made the following remarkable statement:

"For five years I had neuritis," he said. "The pains centered in my arms and hands, and in the back of my neck. I could hardly stand the agony at times, because it was worse than torture. I felt like nothing would ever reach my suffering. I tried special treatments, medicines and remedies, and I don't know how many attempts I have made to regain my health, but I will say that everything put together was less effective than this Konjola. This new medicine began to relieve me within only a few days, and I noticed in a little while that the pains didn't come over me quite so often. As I continued to take Konjola I improved steadily, and at the present time, I will state that I am free of pains and suffering without a trace of pains and suffering in every part. My head and neck is no longer stiff, and I can walk without stopping at all in my legs. With my neuritis finally gone, I am feeling like a younger man, and I have Konjola to thank for my new health. I cannot but praise it."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all reputable druggists in every town throughout this whole section.—Adv.

-o- The New Book -o-

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

FOLLOWING in the footsteps of other famous writers whose short stories have been stepping stones to full-length novels, Irvin S. Cobb has acquired for himself the name of a successful novelist in his latest work, "Chivalry Peak," which has just been published by the Cosmopolitan Book Co.

Seldom is an author, famous for one type of writing, able to swing into an entirely different style with such success as has attended Cobb's efforts in the field of narrative. Nor have the maiden efforts of an author merited such instant approval of the reading public.

"Chivalry Peak" is an adventure romance. While the elements that have endeared Cobb's writing to a multitude of readers are by no means lacking, in it there also are the constantly growing suspense, effected only in full-length novels, the mounting mystery, and the more exciting episodes which makes so many readers prefer a sustained narrative to the best short stories ever written.

Typical of Cobb's short stories, the opening paragraph of "Chivalry Peak" captures the interest by so delineating a character so penetratingly and understandingly that you follow it deep into the first chapter without coming up for breath. And by that time you are inextricably drawn into the plot.

Differing from the majority of Cobb's former stories, "Chivalry Peak" is a western romance. But some of the southern mountain men, whose quaint characteristics he has so vividly painted in other pen pictures, are to be found in it. It is a tale that lovers of both Bret Hart and Irvin S. Cobb will favor, with a Lindbergh-sort of hero who wages a single-handed battle that the reader is likely to approve in spite of certain dark aspects.

There is in "Chivalry Peak" not only consummate characterization but some extraordinary fine description, ascribable, no doubt, to the fact that the grandeur of a new terrain are being seen through Eastern eyes to which all is new.

And then as the climax rushes upon you there suddenly confronts the reader a typical Cobb surprise ending. Cobb has hidden the striking facts that are revealed in the last chapter, and after coming to the unusual climax you wander back through the book, finding that the story turns out as those three hidden but now revealed facts would have it.

Those who are skeptical of an author's ability to swing into an entirely different field and furnish material as interesting as in his short stories have but to read this Cobb narrative to satisfy themselves that it has been done in "Chivalry Peak."

PICKED FOR MONTH
"RIGHT OFF THE MAP," C. E. Monaghan's new novel which Doubleday, Page & Co. have just published, has been unanimously chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club as the best publication in October. It is said to be a "scathing romance of war."

CRANE'S MEMORIES
ARE PUBLISHED
"Footprints and Echoes"—the memories of William H. Crane, has just been published by E. P. Dutton & Co. According to Mr. Crane's account, George Ade could never make a speech. He could write but never remember or give them. He was fond of taking an orchestra seat when one of his plays was new so as to listen to comment in the audience. Mr. Crane said, and at one performance of "The College Widow," he especially noted one intelligent couple who seemed to have nothing to say. Until, upon leaving the theater, the woman remarked, "Well, you would come."

THREE NEW BOOKS
FOR CHILDREN
THE Children's Book Department of Doubleday, Page & Co. have just announced publication of three new books, "Russ Farwell, Border Patrolman," Thomson Burris; "Meredit's Ann," Elizabeth Janet Gray; and "The New Book of Magic," Professor Paradise and Joseph Leeming.

FROM the Appleton press comes another charming book in the Joy Street series for young readers. Stories and poems for the volume were contributed by a number of such famous authors as Lord Dunsany and Algernon Blackwood.

LINCOLN'S NOVEL
QUITE POPULAR

Among the unusual novels of the year is Joseph O. Lincoln's latest, "The Aristocratic Miss Brewster," the story of Mary Brewster of the little town of Wapatomie. Another of the "unusual" class and of totally different character, is Susan Erick's "Now East, Now West," the reactions of a popular young American couple to a year in English social circles. Brand White's "Transplanted" is also a study of an American in foreign surroundings.

"TRAGIC BRIDE" STORY OF ALEXANDRIA

"The Tragic Bride," Vladimir Poliakoff's recent publication, is the story of Alexandria, "tragic bride" of Nicholas the second, last emperor of Russia. She was given the name of the "tragic bride" as her marriage occurred immediately after the funeral of her husband's father and her coronation ceremony was darkened by the death of many thousands in a frightful accident in the course of the coronation celebration.

Polakoff also wrote "Mother Dear"—The Empress Marie of Russia and Her Times.

CALLS NOISES OF INDUSTRY U. S. SYMPHONY

Coolidge Hits Those Who See Nothing in Nation but Greed for Gold

Washington, Oct. 14.—President and Mrs. Coolidge returned from Pittsburgh at 7:30 o'clock this morning and went immediately to the White House for breakfast.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 11.—In calm and philosophic vein, President Coolidge yesterday took cognizance of those detractors of the United States who can see in our every move naught but greed for gold, laughed at their own vaingloriousness and painted a picture of an America moving majestically forward with all the rest of the world whether it be in the field of industry, arts or letters.

The president was leading the annual celebration of founder's day at Carnegie Institute Sunday, appropriately enough, the twenty-sixth international exhibition of paintings were on display, some 100 canvases from the hands of 50 artists, 20 of whom are Americans.

"There are still some who sit apart, who do not see, who can not understand," observed the president. "By then our industrial life is the reproduction of selfishness."

Mr. Coolidge found in the paintings of national character and an elevation of the spiritual level. A stimulus of general interest, in the hour after the exhibition, is all essential.

"It is a fundamental principle of our institutions that freedom, education and wealth are not to be reserved for the few, but are to be reached through equal opportunity which is open to all," he said. "We have staked America on the potential capacity of the average citizen. Truth and beauty are inseparably related. A general enlightenment of the nation can not fail to provide an inspiration which will result in the improvement of the character of the people. It is for this reason that the painter and the founder of art galleries rank high as public benefactors. They raise people to a spiritual level which they could not otherwise attain."

Praises Carnegie
In the course of his address, the president took occasion to heap praise upon the late Andrew Carnegie, one of the greatest of American philanthropists in the field of arts and letters, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, who likewise is donating heavily from his millions to stimulate general interest in the arts.

Turning to the material, the executive reviewed the tremendous industrial life in Pittsburgh, fifth city of the nation in point of bank capital and exports.

happened to our sister cities. The flood of this season filled cellars on highest in Columbus to a depth of six feet and sewer after sewer was blown up. The same occurred in many of the larger cities of Ohio. New York City, in a recent flood, right in the Bronx, showed a rapid river flowing down a prominent avenue with hundreds of automobiles stalled in the rush of water, while many of the sewers were destroyed.

Sewer Litter in Streets
Except for the inconvenience of the west side we have escaped entirely from any serious loss. Some cellars in the east side, that were being talked about needing this service, proved upon investigation to have their own outlets stuffed with mud and fishbones. The debris that is permitted to fall into our modest sewer system is enough to seriously impair its efficiency. In the residential district everyone seems to think it is his duty to sweep into the street all the litter possible. This dump-azee freezes in the winter time, and if we had a hundred sewers at such a time, they would afford no relief. A view of the east side shows that there is the place to begin. A survey indicates that if the city council and county commissioners could agree upon the terms and conditions by which the storm water of east Marion could flow into its rightful and legal channels, to the Whetstone near Valdes, at a reasonable expense to the city, it would relieve a goodly portion of the burden resting upon the farmers as well as give us storm water outlet. In one instance a number of years ago a cellar drain we had put in on the east side for a well-known citizen. The water was pulled down westward to a certain outlet and cost the city $10,000 and his house was worth about $1,000.

Intercepting Water
One of the greatest measures for storm water relief is to thus intercept water that does not belong in the west side sewers. This matter is so easily inspected that we express a hope that our citizens will take a look in at it. Even old time Grave Creek can be used with much success in storm water control. Now then if this is done we can turn our attention to westside sewer. This time all that is necessary is to carry back east, up towards Oakset, intercepting sewers with proper inlets and well-constructed catch basins. There should be one of these sewers on each side of the street. This intercepting water could be carried down and the two three foot sewers filled to their capacity. One observer has said that he has never seen, after any storm, but what the water by its swirls showed that it was entering the sewers. This indicates that the full sewer capacity was not used. Many years ago as city engineer, I saw the future trouble of dumping storm water in enormous quantities into the valleys surrounding our city. I suggested to prominent citizens, such as the late A. H. Kling and Edward Huber, the propriety of constructing intercepting sewers carried along the ridge 300 or 400 feet up the slope from the valley of the then Goose Creek—now Columbus, and carry this water along the ridge far to the west and northwest, entering finally Rock Swale. For we must recall that there is still a great volume of water entering Rock Swale from the old sewer ditch northwest of Marion.

Hold Down Expense
We firmly believe if this matter were looked into and investigated as it should be, the expense of added sewers would not exceed $250,000. Looking into some of the sewer work that we have constructed, we find ourselves in total disagreement with Engineer Cathers in his advocacy of placing these storm water sewers at great depths. Any one acquainted with the rock formation upon which a great deal of this town rests, can understand what this means. Sewers at great depths in the rock cost three times the expense of passing through soil. For example, the famous George street sewer that empties into Rock Swale.

These taxpayers hope that our officials will see the necessity of further investigation before involving us in a proposition unparalleled in the history of our civic affairs.

Here is a fair proposition fairly stated: if we are found to be in error, we wish to know where it is. Another thing we may recall: that the request for additional storm water sewers was first suggested by our realtors. After the $800,000 proposition was launched the question was asked of prominent realtors, "Was it your wish to have such an expenditure authorized?" The reply was that no such thing was thought of. They expected reasonable service at a reasonable expense. And the amount involved staggered everybody who gave it any attention.

We are pleased to note that Engineer Gascon's plan involved the construction of a storm water sewer from northeast Marion to the Quaga, intercepting the east and water.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) George B. Christian.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the Middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed a dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. It was turned over to her. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers, who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. Daugherty, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT
DRINK MORE WATER

If Your Back Aches or Bladder
Bothers, Take a Little

Salts

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out;
they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four quarts of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then net fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

Red and Black Awaits Call to Start Against Ashland

Squad Given Light Drill Last Night; To See Game at Ohio Wesleyan Today

First Real Football Weather of Season Puts in Appearance; Harding Lineup Remains Unchanged; High School Band Will Accompany Team

WITH only a light workout last night, W. Va. There will be no work on the and perhaps none tonight, Coach Boler and his Red and Black gridder are awaiting the referee's whistle to start the game with Ashland Saturday. This will be Harding's second league game as well as the second game away from home.

Signal drill and dummy scrimmages was on the program for the team last night. It was light and the boys were sent in early. For the first time this season real football weather prevailed. The air was damp and chilly. And from all appearances the players won't be subdued tomorrow.

There will probably be no change in the Harding lineup for Saturday. The starters will likely be Houghton and

JACK DELANEY WILL MEET JACK RENAUULT IN GARDEN TONIGHT

Considered First of Heavy-weight Elimination Bouts

New York, Oct. 14.—What may be termed the inaugural of the 1927-28 series of heavyweight championship eliminations will be staged tonight at Madison Square Garden when Jack Delaney meets Jack Renault in a 10-round bout. Delaney is favored to win, but not by a knockout. Renault is extremely hard to hit when he is hurt and knows as many defensive tricks as any man in the ring today.

Renault's record discloses only one defeat by a knockout, the late Billy Mike putting him away in 13 rounds five years ago. Furthermore, Delaney has seldom upset big fellows with his best punches. Tonight the former light heavyweight champion will be obliged to spot Renault at least 20 pounds.

If he should drop Renault for the long count, Delaney will be right back in the spot he occupied a year ago. After his knockout of Bud Gorman, Jack was rated with Sharkey and Dempsey.

Delaney can always go back to the 175-pound division and prosper but he determined to make good as a heavyweight.

COAST GAMES

Saturday To See Some Good Football Along Pacific

San Francisco, Oct. 14.—Football chiefs have cooked some savory dishes for Pacific Coast football epicures tomorrow.

The two most important games to be played will see three California teams in action. Stanford, Pacific Coast Conference champion last year, will meet the Trojans of the University of Southern California at Palo Alto, and the Golden Bears will tangle with the University of Oregon at Portland.

Washington and Montana will meet in the third conference game of the week. The Huskies are expected to run up a large score against the weak Montana team.

Washington State and Gonzaga will meet at Spokane.

Idaho, which battled to a scoreless tie with Oregon last week, will meet Whitman.

SPORTS

PLAYS QUARTERBACK AT KANSAS AGGIE

Nonblatting George Gauthier. Because he is football coach of Ohio Wesleyan, champion of the Ohio conference.

Because he has shown outstanding ability and has been mentioned frequently in connection with coaching positions at major institutions. Because he was a four-letter man in high school, winning his honors in basketball, baseball, football and track.

Because he was quarterback on the Michigan Aggie team of 1912 that gave Michigan and Wisconsin both a 12-7 licking.

WOOSTER TO GO TO TIFFIN SATURDAY

Two Teams Have Not Met on Gridiron Since 1918

Wooster, Ohio, Oct. 14.—Coach L. C. Boler will take the Wooster College football team to Tiffin Saturday for the first out of town game of the season and play Heidelberg on Avenue Field. This will be the first game between the two schools since 1918 when Wooster won 7 to 0 here.

Since Boler took charge of athletics at Wooster, only two games have been played with Heidelberg. The first, which was also the first game a Boler coached, Wooster team played, was the dedication of Severance Stadium here. Heidelberg scored a touchdown in the last minute of play to win 13 to 6.

Nine games have been played on the gridiron between teams from the two schools. Wooster has won six and Heidelberg three. The last four games have been hard fought games with each team getting two victories.

MT. UNION FULLBACK INJURED AT WOOSTER

Methodists Play Hiram Saturday; Coach Thorpe To Use Reserves

Alliance, Oct. 14.—Bisler, fullback on the Mount Union College football team, will not be in the starting lineup Saturday when the Purple eleven clashes with Hiram at Hiram. Bisler was injured in the Wooster game last Saturday and Coach John M. Thorpe will give him as much rest as possible before the homecoming game with Akron on October 20.

"Ham" Marks or Bottomley, a sophomore, will probably get the call in the backfield with Yensling, Emerson and Clewright. Meredith, Mount's fast stepping quarterback, is also another of Thorpe's backfield men who will be used sparingly in the Hiram game.

NO BALLS, NO GAME; BABE COLLECTS FIRST

Asbury Park, N. J., Oct. 14.—Babe Ruth puts business ahead of baseball—in exhibition games, at least. Before starting play against the Brooklyn Royal Giants here, Ruth insisted upon collecting a guarantee of $2,500, holding up the game an hour while 7,000 fans raved.

Lou Gehrig, the Babe's partner, broke up the game with his second homer. Then several thousand youngsters broke it up permanently by swarming on the field and stealing the thirty-minutes and last baseball.

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles".—Adv.

Try Moonlight to Better Your Putting Game, Menke

BY FRANK G. MENKE

If you are a bit minus in the art of putting, you might do a little practicing under the light of the moon. And then, bingo, jingo, your game ought to improve—just like that. Not so long ago a group of golfers sat around in the twilight on the club house veranda and indulged in debate as to whether each had anything on the other in operations on the green. One word brought on another, and some of the boys began issuing challenges—with the challengers accepting with alacrity.

Up Early
"We'll put it out first thing in the morning," said the leader of one faction.

"Why wait until morning?" snorted the other, "a moon is coming up. That's enough light for any GOOD GOLFER on a putting green."

And, in the end, the band of eight trooped off to the putting green that was lighted only by the moon—and that light was irregular owing to the frequent passage of clouds that held back the beams.

They putted from the farthest edge of a big green and the remarkable thing is that men who averaged around 8 strokes on the green in daylight began dropping consistent "twos" under the treacherous light of eccentric moonbeams.

Every man in the group was puzzled by the fact that his putting actually improved one stroke under conditions which, at the outset, seemed destined to make putting more difficult. Finally one man explained it:

"This bum light is forcing us to keep our eyes on the ball."

And just so much was true. The players, on the far edge of the green, could just barely see the hole as they mentally gauged the distance and planned out the direction of their stroking. But they could see it only when they concentrated by looking at it with both eyes.

They found it impossible at night—as is possible in daytime—to keep one eye on the ball and one on the hole.

Both Eyes on Ball
So, when they putted they had both eyes on the ball. They were wholly concentrated upon the ball. And, as a result, their stroking was extremely accurate and those who had failed in the try for one, almost always placed their ball close enough to the cup to drop it in on the next stroke.

So, if you aren't happy about your putting game, try yourself into the moonlight one of these autumnal evenings and play a sonata on the gutter perch. Its guaranteed to help, not only by those who tried it first but by hundreds who since then have taken the tip from the pointers and indulged in moonlight putting.

Ohio Conference, Buckeye A. A. Teams Clash In Important State Games

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14.—Buck Wil-

helm hasn't worked up much enthusiasm over his Big Red eleven which represents Denison this year, and his opinion seems to be more or less general especially toward the Miami-Denison annual clash which features Saturday's Ohio Conference schedule. The teams will meet at Oxford for the first time since 1914, and for their seventeenth meet since 1900. Miami has won eight, Denison six, with two games ties. The clash of these old rivals is the only Buckeye Athletic Association game scheduled.

Coach Boles boys have been putting out a good brand of football for Wooster and should mark up their third conference victory in their game with Heidelberg. Mt. Union will have little trouble at Hiram, according to the book.

Oberlin has been exhibiting a fine brand of football, while Western Reserve has finished second in its two conference starts, and there seems to be no reason for predicting other than another Oberlin victory over the Cleveland aggregation.

Wittenberg and Muskingum still look like the rest in the conference. The Springfield Lutherans entertain Ashland in a non-conference tilt, while the New Concord Muskies will play with the Columbus Lutherans of Capital University in another non-conference tilt. If either conference team is scored against, the dope sheet is all wrong. Ohio Wesleyan entertains Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va., today.

Other college games in the state are: Cedarville at Bluffton; Adrian, Mich.

at Berea. Case has lost both conference games to date, and will doubtless fare no better when they entertain Akron at Cleveland.

vs. John Carroll at Cleveland; Morris Harvey, Barboursville, W. Va., at Big Grande, and Detroit College at Toledo.

Coach Boles will start the same Wooster line-up at Heidelberg which played the major part of the 15 to 9 victory over Mt. Union last Saturday.

Muskingum's "Braves" are confident of an easy victory over Capital University, and according to Coach Lutz, feel safe until next Saturday when they meet the Akron "Zippers."

Forward pass defense has been stressed the past week at Dayton following the "Flies" defeat at Big Cross last Saturday. The "Flies" gained 116 yards via the forward pass last week, but Holy Cross made 11 yards by the same method.

The dope on Kenyon's Episcopalians is they haven't much chance for victory when they clash with Rochester, N. Y. Hiram will present almost a new team to Page 37.

SCHOOL BAND TO ACCOMPANY TEAM

Members of the Harding High School Band, which this year includes three girls, Misses Dorothy Creasap and Lillian East, clarinetists, and Miss Sage, saxophonist, will accompany the football team to Ashland for the Ashland-Harding game Saturday. J. M. Temple, supervisor of music in the city schools, announced today. This will be the longest trip the band has made this year.

Perry at the ends, Hieff and Smith, at the tackle; Captain Kramer and Zimmer at guards and Evans at center. In the back field will be Stafford at fullback, Garrett and McManish at halves, and Lowe at quarter. Garrett's outfit which got a bad twist in the Findlay game is better and he has been in scrimmages the last two days.

This afternoon Coach Boler plans to take the entire squad to Delaware to see Ohio Wesleyan's remodeled eleven meet Marshall College of Huntington.

BIG TEN TEAMS PLAY IN HARD CONTESTS

Wisc., Oct. 14.—"Yump" was the slogan of the Wisconsin football team as it rumbled through a close game with the Iowa Hawkeyes. Immediately after the game, the team was taken to the field for setting up the dummy practice.

Ind., Oct. 14.—With the Maroons team quartered but the game away, Pat Page.

coach of the Indiana University eleven, decided on a blackboard drill today instead of a workout in the stadium for the homecoming game tomorrow.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 14.—The Purdue football squad, thirty-five strong, departed today for Chicago in charge of Head Coach Jimmy Phelan. With one exception the same team that defeated Harvard a week ago will take the field against Stagg's Maroons. Either Glen Harmonson or Albert Guthrie will play Tony Leichte's position at fullback. Leichte was injured in the Eastern game.

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 14.—Coach Zuppke, viewing the Saturday game with Iowa State as a tough assignment, sent the Illini charges through a stiff signal drill today. The contest tomorrow is the first football engagement between the two schools.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—As close to perfection as any Chicago eleven has been in recent years, the Maroons tapered off today for the crucial game with Purdue tomorrow at Stagg Field. The Chicago offensive has been bolstered during the week and a system aimed to check the Phelan air plays has been perfected.

Western Reserve had been busy with passing attack practice since its defeat by St. Xavier last Saturday and with field work starting at fullback hopes to fight over in a mean afternoon.

Coach Godfrey will start his heavy hitters against Ashland and hopes to run up another high score against the state team. To date the Lutherans have made 108 points in two games but they were unable to score against Ohio State.

Howard Blairs Akron "Zippers" will present a revamped lineup at Case with Fitzharris starting at end in place of Hiss, and Hopkins going from substitute center to guard, according to press arrangements. The regular backfield will doubtless start.

Ohio Northern feels that it lost last Saturday because Ohio University got off the breaks, and Coach Meredith expects better things from the Baldwin-Wallace team at Berea.

Dayton will not see the annual Miami-Lenox clash this year. The teams will meet away from Dayton for the first time since 1917. Buck Wilhelm expected signs of improvement in the Garville eleven this week but the former Stivers coach made no wild predictions.

Cincinnati will be outwitted to a great extent by the Dayton Flyers, and Coach Babcock is hoping the River Bears will score against the Gem City Catholics.

5c—BUT GOOD!

A Famous Old Cigar at a Nickel Now. Here's News

There's a cigar on sale in this town today that will convince the most hard-boiled skeptic who ever said "all nickel cigars are alike." This cigar sold at over a nickel for years. It was so downright good that the sales went up and up. We were able to bring the price down to a nickel. Then we made the cigar even better. Now it's selling in the millions.

Any smoker who gives that cigar a work-out will revise his ideas about five-centers. He'll get flavor, aroma, ripe tobacco, mild fragrance—everything that makes a good cigar good. He'll find that he can smoke it all day and every day and never get tired of it. He'll forget how little the cigar costs. The name is Havana Ribbon, men. It's been a good name for thirty years. No matter what you think of five-cent cigars, park your prejudices and thrust a single nickel in Havana Ribbon. You owe that much to yourself as a smoker.

DAYTON FLIERS TO TRAIN NEW QUARTER

Finn This Year Is Alternating with McGarry at Signal Post

Dayton, Oct. 14.—When Captain Jack McGarry sings his football swan song next Thanksgiving, the University of Dayton will not be left without a sterling quarterback.

Throughout four years the major part of signal backing has been in Jack's hands, but last year saw the rise of a new field general who already has proven his merit. He is Doug Finn and hails from the Forest City.

Finn, this year, is alternating regularly with McGarry, and draws about 50 per cent of the quarterback assignment. His strategy and ability to produce a smashing offensive were shown to good advantage in the opening game this season when piloting the Flyers second team he ran up four touchdowns, while the other three teams Bayan used were able to count only six touchdowns in the remaining three quarters.

Doug is a triple threat man, passing accurately and punting on an average of 40 yards. He has developed into quite a shifty broken field runner. On defense, he is the strongest quarter on the squad and with this year's experience bids fair to be Dayton's greatest field general.

MID-WEST STAP

This 20-year-old husky is making football enthusiasts throughout the country sit up and take notice. He is Ralph Welch, Purdue University halfback. He was the star in Purdue's victory over Harvard.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, whose apparent indisposition to work at his trade has drawn the fire of various state boxing commissions, has agreed to defend his title here Nov. 14. Promoter Jim Mullen announced today. Mullen declared he had secured the signature of Mandell's manager, Eddie

NORTHWESTERN AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, Oct. 14.—Quartered on the outskirts of the city, the Northwestern University eleven that faces Ohio State tomorrow limbered up on Stadium Field today after the long train ride from Evanston, Ill. Tiny Lewis, stellar backfield performer who was reported to have contracted pneumonia, was in uniform and probably will be in the starting lineup.

Kane, who agreed to send his Rockford bash against any opponent Mullen selected.

The promoter said the winner of the McLarnin-Kaplan clash here next Tuesday night will be given serious consideration. Kaplan is a former featherweight champion who was forced to vacate the title by growing out of the division.

Kane's eagerness to get employment for Mandell was believed inspired by the threat of the National Boxing Association to declare the lightweight throne vacant unless Sammy defended his title within a specified time.

HIGH CALIBRE FOOTBALL TO BE SEEN ON GRIDS SATURDAY

BY MALCOLM RAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—East and West, North and South, football slips into high speed tomorrow with games of championship calibre dotting the schedule of virtually every college eleven that aspires to greatness.

Toppling the list in point of popular interest are the Navy-Notre Dame battle at Baltimore at which more than 80,000 spectators are looked for, and the Ohio State-Northeastern University clash at Columbus, where fully as many more enthusiasts will follow a game that may well decide the championship of the Western Conference.

Rockne Team Favored

Nationally, the Navy-Notre Dame game ranks with the season's best with the prospects slightly favoring the speedy eleven which Knute Rockne has brought on from South Bend. The Navy has a big rugged team with plenty of reserve power but its showing against Drake University last week was not of the kind to inspire the Midwesterners with too much confidence for victory over Notre Dame, which this year apparently measures up to the Rockne tradition of being as alert and versatile as it is fast and powerful.

Notre Dame for once will discard its usual blue jerseys and appear on the field in sweaters of verdant green.

Flanagan, the big back who can ring around the Army eleven last fall and completely outplayed the West Pointers, is the man who is expected to tear things wide open against the Midwesterners who themselves have a pair of fine backfield stars in Lind and Clifton.

Yale and Brown will meet at New Haven in another game that will be a real battle between two eleven which despite their defeat last week are both powerful teams, and pretty well matched with what else there is inclined to be with Brown. Harvard will also catch another Tartan in the Holy Cross team which it faces in the Stadium at Cambridge.

New York will have two outstanding conflicts with intense interest centered in the game between Fordham and New York University at the Yankee Stadium. It is estimated that more than 50,000 will see this game in which Major Frank Cavanaugh will send his new Fordham charges into their first major battle against N. Y. U. with its veteran backfield stars and omnipotent line. Columbia and Colgate provide the other Metropolitan attraction. Despite Colgate's unexpected reverse at the hands of V. P. I. last week, the upstart eleven is regarded as having more than an even chance of halting the victorious career of the Blue and White.

Pennsylvania, flying high as a result of its victory over Brown, tackles Penn State at Franklin Field. On past performances Penn should have little difficulty in disposing of State which is beaten last week by Bucknell.

Three other games in the east of more than passing interest are the Syracuse-Georgetown encounter at Syracuse, the Carnegie Tech-W. & J. contest at Pittsburgh and the Lafayette-West Virginia battle at Morgantown. Princeton is not likely to have much trouble with Washington & Lee at Princeton, nor is Dartmouth apt to stumble over the hitherto unbeaten Temple University team of Philadelphia at Hanover. Cornell has an open date and does not play tomorrow while the Army will get in trim for its battle with Yale next week by playing Davis-Elihu.

JUNIOR MIDGETS TO ELECT OFFICERS SUNDAY

The Junior Midgets basketball team will meet Sunday at 1:30 o'clock at the Calvary Evangelical Church. All old members are requested to be present for the election of officers.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At London—Johnny Hill, flyweight champion of Great Britain, scored technical knockout over Francois Moracchini, former French champion, in ninth round.

At Atlanta—Paul Herberich, former night heavyweight champion, drew with Joe Lohman, Toledo (10).

At Akron—O. Johnny Hisko, Cleveland heavyweight, awarded newspaper decision over Homer Hajas, of Ohio (10).

At Pittsburgh—Teddy Eastbrook, Niles, O., middleweight won from Bobby Richardson, Portage, Pa. (10).

At Saginaw, Mich.—Eddie Dyer, Terra Haute, Ind., lightweight, won decision over Kempe Trimble, Chicago (10).

Women in Favor of Hoover,
Is Overheard on All Sides

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press-Star Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—President Coolidge? Oh, he'd be renominated if he only half chose to be, and he may be drafted anyway.

Hughes? Big business likes him. Dawes?—or Lowden? Either one of them ought to suit the farmers.

Longworth? He's mighty popular among the politicians. Hoover? Why, the women are in favor of Hoover.

THIS isn't to say that the masculine fraction of the electorate is unfavorable to Hoover.

On the contrary, he's an all-round strong candidate. Undoubtedly also, there are women whose first selection would be Charles Evans Hughes, or Charles G. Dawes, or Frank O. Lowden, or Nicholas Longworth. Yet you'll notice, every time the roll of Republican presidential possibilities is called, that you'll overhear, from one corner or another, the remark:—The WOMEN are in favor of HOOVER.

CURIOUS to know whether this is a fact, and, supposing it to be so, what the reason is, I took nearly a whole day off, and went around asking all the women I could find in Washington who profess any considerable interest in politics whether it's true that Secretary of Commerce Hoover really is the American woman's favorite pick as next year's Republican presidential nominee, and if he is, WHY he is?

The answer to the first question was almost uniform:—

"Why, you know—I never thought of it before—but now you mention it—yes sir, I do believe it IS true."

REPLIES to the request for an explanation of the phenomenon were more varied.

"They hail down substantially to this:—

Secretary Hoover's personality stands out prominently as a humanly helpful one—as in Belgium and the Mississippi valley—a characteristic upon which women seem to think that other women set a higher value than is generally set on it by their husbands, their fathers and their brothers. He's been prominently identified with the American Child Help and the Better Homes movements.

He's associated in women's minds with the idea of uplifting domesticity—not merely by setting a good example, like lots of public men, but by DOING something for it.

MRS. HOOVER is given a great deal of credit for popularizing her husband with the women of the country. She's a member of many women's organizations. She's lent an efficient hand in the promotion of their activities. She's a Girl Scout vice president.

She's done good work in getting out the women's vote. She believes in them in public life. In short, she has a very large following.

Large numbers of women, when they hear Secretary Hoover spoken of as a Republican presidential possibility, think of Mrs. Hoover and are promptly in favor of her husband.

RATHER peculiarly, most of the women I consulted spoke of Secretary Hoover as "liberal." I always thought he was a conservative.

The 3 Staffs of Life

... Vital for Health!

Protein for strength, Fat for heat, Carbohydrates for energy. All these body-building essentials in Virginia Sweet Pancake Flour. The Fishback Co. Indianapolis, Ind.

IF YOU are not among the increasing thousands who know Sugardale, try this better brand next time you buy bacon, ham, sausage or ready-to-serve meats. You can get these Sugardale meats at any good dealer's, and once you've enjoyed their delicious flavor you'll never be satisfied with ordinary brands again.

Sugardale meats are prepared by secret old-time recipes, blended with just the right touch of ginger and mace and molasses to give them a flavor and zest that means new delight every time they're served.

Pure, wholesome, easily prepared—and good! Yet they cost no more than most ordinary meats. The Sugardale Provision Company, Canton, Ohio.

The Marion Grain and Supply Company

Marion, Ohio.

Poultry, Feeds, Coal, Grain, Hay and Field Seeds.

The following Binco Products were used today by Mrs. George Thurn in the Star Cooking School.

Binco Peas

The new pack just received from our canner is ready for you.

When buying Binco Peas remember the two varieties, Sweet Peas, the larger size and early June, the small size.

We know you will be very much pleased with this year's pack.

Food Products

Mrs. George Thurn at the Star Cooking School has been trying to impress upon you the value of brand in your purchases.

Would you buy a can of corn without a label? We take it that your answer would be NO—but are you always as particular about the brand you receive?

When you are ordering your groceries just say Binco and we know that you will be pleased with your purchase.

CHURCH OR JAIL IS JUDGE'S ULTIMATUM

Charles Payne, 19, Elects To Attend Religious Services Following Hearing

Charles Payne, 19, arrested Tuesday on charges of disorderly conduct, can have his choice of either going to Sunday school and church, or of going to jail. When arraigned before Judge William R. Martin in municipal court yesterday, Payne pleaded not guilty to a charge of cursing and abusing Francis R. Williamson on last Sunday.

He was found guilty however and after considering the case Judge Martin said that Payne could have his choice of going to Sunday school and church or going to jail. Payne said he would do the former. A check will be kept on Payne by the court and in case he fails to keep his word he will go to jail, the judge said.

Only 10 per cent of all known cases have any appreciable record.

NEW HEATING PLANT IS INSTALLED IN BUILDING

The Elite building, on S. Main-st., has recently been equipped with a new Bryant sectional boiler for heating purposes. The boiler is of a new type, entirely automatic, and is capable of heating a building three times the size of the Elite building. Fuel burned in the boiler is natural gas and temperature is regulated by an electric thermostat.

The building is owned by John H. Williamson of Findlay.

Plumbing in connection with installation of the boiler was done by T. M. Cunningham. Paul Williamson is manager of the building.

FORMER MARION WOMAN INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Hazel Yoder of Ohio City, formerly of Marion, is recovering from injuries sustained Tuesday when the car in which she was on her way to this city, was struck by a truck, just out of Delphos. The machine was completely demolished. Mrs. Yoder, Farris and son, Robert, and Mrs. Yoder's two children, who were accompanying her, were also injured, the two Yoder children escaping with only minor bruises.

Industrial and Specialty Stocks Maintain Firm Tone on Market

ALL REPORTS UNFAVORABLE

Third Quarter Poorest Since Final Period of 1924, Reviews Show

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
 Railroads—Strong; industrial stocks—strong; domestic bonds—steady; foreign bonds—strong; call money—1 per cent; grain—steady; copper—steady; oil—weak; cotton—irregular; rubber—firm; sugar—steady; pig iron—steady; foreign exchange—irregular.

New York, Oct. 14.—Industrial and specialty stocks maintained a firm tone today in the face of unfavorable, or at least indifferent, developments in important branches of business and industry. The market was inclined to ignore the failure of speculative borrowing to register a large decline than the $100,000, or less actually reported, as well as the withdrawal of a considerable volume of funds from the call market.

Quarterly reviews of general business conditions presented by authoritative statisticians showed that the quarter just ended was the poorest since the last three months of 1924. Some of the most important industries of the country including steel, automobile manufacturing, oil trade and the metals trades generally turned distinctly downward in that quarter, though the expectation is that a revival will occur between now and the end of the year.

Pools Furnish Strength
 With commission houses urging conservatism, it was current opinion in Wall Street today that the market's strength arises chiefly from the powerful support accorded leading stocks of the bankers and professional and pools, and the industrial magnates who have by no means completed their negotiations for the important projects they have in mind. Until the pools are ready to "distribute" stocks, there is little probability of a sizable decline in prices. On the other hand, bearish traders have been severely assailing the market at every opportunity with a view to forcing liquidation and a lower range of prices.

LOCAL MASONS RETURN HOME

More Than 100 from Here
Back from Akron Commandery Meet

More than 100 representatives of Marion Commandery No. 23, Knights Templar, who attended the eighty-fifth annual convocation of the grand commandery of Ohio held in Akron this week have returned home with reports that the meeting was one of the most successful in the history of the state organization.

All but five of the local delegation returned home follow Wednesday's program, which included the outstanding features of the three-day convocation. The five who remained for the final business session as official representatives of the local commandery were: Harvey W. Gracely, Clyde Smith, James E. Messenger, James H. Eymon and James A. Knapp.

List of Officers
Election of state officers took place at the closing session, held yesterday morning, and resulted as follows:

Joseph A. Wortman, Dayton, grand commander; John H. Dickerson, Cincinnati, deputy grand commander; Robert L. Quigley, Cleveland, grand generalissimo; Robert J. West, Toledo, grand captain general; Robert H. Pausch, Columbus, grand senior warden; Frank M. Ransbottom, Zanesville, grand junior warden; W. B. Baldwin, Medina, grand prelate; Charles F. Henry, Marietta, grand treasurer; Henry Schaeffer, Toledo, grand recorder.

Dayton was selected for the eighty-sixth convocation, to be held Oct. 11, 12 and 13, 1928.

The next important event on the state Masonic calendar is the annual grand lodge meeting to be held in Springfield, next week. Three official representatives will attend from each lodge in Marion County and it is expected that others will be present as visitors.

FIVE-DAY WEEK TO BE GOAL OF LABOR

William Green Re-elected as President of American Federation

Los Angeles, Oct. 11.—A five-day week of 40 working hours so that wage earners might have more opportunities for recreation and the pursuit of happiness was the goal of organized workers today as the forty-seventh annual American Federation of Labor convention entered its final session.

The big labor convocation, which has been in session here during the last 11 days, drew to a close this morning as delegates awaited reports from committees on the shorter work day and on international labor relations.

With William Green, retained as America's labor chieftain and the executive council of the federation re-elected for the ensuing year, delegates yesterday selected New Orleans as their place of meeting in 1928.

Besides President Green, officers re-elected included James Duncanson, Quincy, Mass.; Frank Duffy, of Indianapolis; T. A. Miller, of Chicago; Jacob Fischer, of Indianapolis; Matthew Wolf, of Chicago; Martin P. Ryan, of Kansas City, Mo.; James Wilson, of Cincinnati; and James P. Noonan, of Washington, D. C., all of whom were retained as vice-presidents of the federation.

Daniel J. Tobin, of Indianapolis, was renominated treasurer and Frank Morrison, of Washington, D. C., was re-elected secretary.

ST. JAMES-RO WORK APPROVED BY BOARD

Changes Made To Eliminate Cause of Objections Filed by Property Owners

Plans for improvement of the St. James road in Richmond Township were approved by the board of county commissioners yesterday after making a few changes to eliminate the cause of objections which had been filed by several property owners.

Contract for the work will be let next spring, according to present plans of the commissioners. The road will be improved over a section two and a half miles in length. It will be of rolled macadam, 12 feet in width.

Prior to the road hearing, the commissioners viewed the route of the proposed Harry-Gooding ditch in Pleasant township and set Tuesday, Oct. 18, as the date for hearing on the petition. The ditch is to be of open construction, a mile and a half in length.

PROSPECT FAIR PLANS MADE

Community Enterprise, Oct. 21-22, To Replace Annual Street Exposition

Prospect, Oct. 14.—A Community Fair will be held Friday and Saturday of next week, at the school building here in place of the annual street fair, which has been held for the past three years. There will be four departments, Agriculture, Home Making, Grade School and Commercial. A very liberal program list has been arranged, and about 225 classes in which exhibits may be shown.

There will be a pony race, mile race, bicycle cross country race, automobile race (slow); several contests; a tug-of-war between farmers and business men, and a tug-of-war across the river between the Freshmen and Sophomores.

Friday night a community gathering will be held in the school auditorium. There will be speakers from out of town, and music by Paul Gaske's orchestra. A silver trophy, and the check of $325 for the trip to Kansas City, will be presented the judging team by Ray Piff. The Home Economics girls, under the direction of Miss Ruth Thomas, will serve lunches both days of the fair, and a chicken supper Friday night. Saturday night a miscellaneous program will be given by the High School.

THREE TIRES, RIMS ARE STOLEN FROM GARAGE

Three tires and rims were stolen from a car in the garage at the home of Earl Deicher, 270 Orchard-st., sometime last night by thieves, who after breaking the lock, jacked up the machine and removed the tires. One firestone and two Triangle tires were taken. The theft was reported to the police this morning.

Are you seeking a perfect diamond?

If so, you may be surprised to learn that such stones are rare indeed. By perfect, of course, we mean perfect—not "perfect" as the term is often used on a price-ticket. There are scores of exceptional diamonds—beautiful stones in which the naked eye cannot possibly detect a flaw. But the microscope can. We judge, price and sell diamonds by the microscope—your one assurance of intrinsic, lasting value. Consult us.
